ELECTRIC GONG RINGS KNELL ON CLEVER SCHEME

Perkins Detective Agency Makes Arrest by Remarkable Work.

THREE MEN CAUGHT

Bell Telephone Employes Accused of Robbing Pay Station Money Drawers.

THE ALARM BELL TELLS TALES

A remarkable system for the robbery of the money boxes in the Bell Telephone Company's automatic pay stations has been unearthed through one of the most novel pieces of modern detective work. In the last 10 months sums exceeding $5,000 have been stolen by thieves who worked in the larger towns and cities throughout Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia. One man was caught in the St. Charles hotel, Pittsburgh, while in the act of opening a money drawer, and three of his confederates in the alleged conspiracy to defraud the company are in custody. More arrests will be made this week.

David Simon of McKeesport, a solicitor for the telephone company, was arrested in the St. Charles hotel last Tuesday night and has been held under $2,500 bail each on charges of larceny and conspiracy. John McMichaels and Frank G. Coleman, also of McKeesport, both former employes of the company, are held under bond on charges of conspiracy. A hearing was opened before Alderman F. M. King yesterday afternoon, and damaging evidence revealed ramifications of methods of theft that are almost unbelievable.

Rich Harvest Was Reaped.

So rich was the harvest made in tapping the boxes that the robbers were enabled to make pleasure trips all over the country and to deposit large sums in various banks in towns where they worked. They had planned to extend their system to many of the large cities, when an electric alarm, invented by the detectives, rang a knell on their elaborate schemes.

Early last Winter the telephone company observed that its automatic pay stations were being robbed. Some of these in the city accumulate from $40 to $50 a week, and it was apparent that the thieves were experts, who knew when and where to find the richest treasures. As the year grew on the reports of the collectors showed that the robbers were enlarging their field. Scarcely an automatic station in the Pittsburgh district was left untouched, and a few months ago the pay stations in surrounding towns were tapped. Oil City on the north, Altoona on the east and towns in Ohio were not considered too far away from the base of operations to be visited with systematic frequency.

For several months the officials of the company placed watches on certain pay stations, but were unable to discover the thief. It is usual to collect the coin from the cash drawers in Pittsburgh and Allegheny every week, and it was discovered that the burglary was committed about a day before the collector was due to appear. In this way an entire week's accumulations rewarded the robber. It was apparent that the work was done by persons who were provided with keys which accurately fitted the locks, so that the money drawers could be quickly opened and cleaned out.

Perkins' Detectives Put to Work.

About a month ago the Perkins Union Detective agency was engaged upon the case. There was absolutely no clue. One day the telephone box at the Baltimore & Ohio station would be robbed. The next day would come a report of thieving at Greensburg, and the next day at Franklin. G. B. Perkins, director of the agency, observed, however, that the Baltimore & Ohio station, the booth in the corridor of the Pittsburgh postoffice and the telephone booth at the St. Charles hotel were regularly visited.

It is usually only in fiction that the detective is finally brought to the neces-

STRUGGLE VAINLY AGAINST DEATH ON STEAMER

(By Associated Press to The Gazette.)

LONDON, Nov. 20.—One hundred and twenty-eight persons lost their lives in the wreck of the London & Southwestern Railway Company's steamer Hilda off the northern coast of France Saturday night, according to an official estimate given out tonight by the officers of the company. This death roll includes 21 saloon passengers, 80 French onion sellers and 27 of the crew.

A telegram from St. Cast, near St. Malo, says that 51 bodies have been washed up on the beach. Distressing scenes were witnessed today at the offices of the London & Southwestern railroad company, both in London and at Southampton, but the company could not give the relatives of the missing passengers the slightest hope. The officials said it would have been impossible for a boat to live for more than a few minutes in such a sea as prevailed on Saturday. The company was unable to furnish a list of the passengers, but it is known that the entire family of a London physician, Dr. Stanley, Mrs. Stanley and their two daughters, were lost. All the crew belonged to Southampton. Only three of them are unmarried.

Cling to Mast Twelve Hours.

ST. MALO, FRANCE, Nov. 20.—James Gunter, the only seaman of the steamer Hilda saved from the wreck, says there was no panic on board. Attempts were made to lower the boats, but the rough sea rendered it impossible. Gunter clung to the fittings of the top mast with nine others below him, including the chief mate and three men, who died during the night of exposure. The Hilda struck at 10 o'clock Saturday night. She was going very slow at the time. Rockets were sent up, but there was no response. Seven minutes later the ship broke amidships and her decks were swept bare with the exception of a few survivors

THE GAZETTE FUND $1,415.25 IN FOUR DAYS

Chamber of Commerce Makes Public Appeal for Support of Needy Humanity.

Reports of continued murders and other outrages in Russia, and the receipt of fuller information showing increased thousands of homeless mourners, has done much to encourage public charity in support of the national fund for the relief of the stricken.

At a meeting of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce, held yesterday afternoon, a resolution calling public attention to the necessity for aid and urging liberal support was adopted. The resolution follows:

Whereas, The Pittsburgh chamber of commerce has read with sorrow and indignation of the recent brutal massacres in Russia; and

Whereas, Owing to the attacks, especially on defenseless women and children, the need of relief for the sufferers is pressing and great;

Resolved, That this meeting commends to the general public the necessity of showing practical sympathy with the unfortunate sufferers and appeals to the kindly disposed people of Pittsburgh and vicinity to lend financial aid to the various movements which seek to relieve the dreadful need of the sufferers in Russia, and the chamber of commerce will be glad to receive any contributions for this purpose and turn them over to the proper authorities for distribution.

The Pittsburgh Gazette's relief fund was swelled by $364 yesterday, making the total subscriptions to date $1,415.25. Many local merchants have signified their intention to contribute to the fund within the next few days, and it is believed that Pittsburgh will make a fair showing in this cause for humanity in comparison with the cities of the east and the country at large.

The natonal relief committee in New York, with whom the local committee, of which Albert M. Hamaker is treasurer, and The Pittsburgh Gazette is co-operating, has sent out the following urgent appeal:

It is impossible to describe the outrages upon the Jews in Russia. From all sources comes the urgent cry for instant help, and the immediate duty is to give prompt, ample and efficient response. Our advices from unquestionable sources are that the remnants of whole communities are homeless and without food. Apparently no calamity of such magnitude has befallen Israel since the fall of Jerusalem. All the horrors of the Inquisition, all the persecutions of the Middle Ages seem incomparable with this stupendous and unspeakable crime both in its malignity and the number of people affected and endangered.

In order to relieve the immediate distress not less than one million dollars should be raised. The whole country is being organized, and every effort must be made that every individual shall contribute to the full measure of his means.

On behalf of the committee,
OSCAR S. STRAUS, Chairman,
JACOB H. SCHIFF, Treasurer,
CYRUS L. SULZBERGER, Secretary.

MATES DINNER ULTIMATUM STARTS A GENERAL FIGHT

Mrs. Mary Mates, a boarding-house keeper on Braddock avenue, Braddock, announced Sunday morning that those who did not attend church in the morning would get no dinner. The edict started a fight and four arrests were necessary before quiet was restored. Three of the boarders were fined $3 and costs yesterday.

BLOOMINGTON, ILL., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Bert Gibson, aged 20, of Pittsburgh, employed on the Chicago & Alton double-track work, fell under a train at Athol and was killed.

LASHES TEACHER UPON FACE WITH HEAVY WHIP

Frenzied Mother Makes Vicious Attack on Prof. Cotton of Swissvale Schools.

"Take this good-naturedly," was the remark by which Mrs. George W. Fieldhouse of 7302 Church street, Swissvale, prefaced an attack with a horsewhip on Professor R. S. Cotton, teacher of mathematics in the Swissvale High school, about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The attack was made in the crowded school room at Dickson and Noble streets, where the High school sessions are being held until the completion of the new building.

The attack resulted, it is said, from the alleged persecution of Mrs. Fieldhouse's 14-year-old son, Homer. The boy is large for his age, and although his teachers say he is bright, it is said the other boys make him the butt of their tricks, and that, for this reason, he left school and ran away a week ago. He was found a few days later with relatives on a farm in Westmoreland county, and on Sunday was brought back home.

Lashed With a Whip.

Soon after the afternoon's session opened yesterday Mrs. Fieldhouse brought the runaway back to the school room. Walking to the desk where Professor Cotton was seated, she accused him of threatening to throw the boy out of the building and demanded why her son was not treated as the other boys of the school.

Professor Cotton made no reply, but as he stood up to confront the angry woman she drew a dog whip from the folds of her dress and struck him half a dozen blows upon the head and shoulders. Instantly all was confusion in the room. The girls screamed and ran over to that side of the room occupied by the boys. Some hurried to the outside, attracting a crowd. The boys rallied to the support of Professor Cotton, but before the woman had finished her attack the lash had also struck Bessie Smithley, one of the pupils. With a final slash across the teacher's face, Mrs. Fieldhouse begged the pupils to excuse her, and, with her head in the air, walked from the room to her home, stopping on the way to tell a number of people what she had done.

Sues His Assailant.

Prof. Cotton left the school in charge of Supt. Terrill after the assault and walked to the office of Squire R. W. Smith in Noble street, where he entered a charge of assault and battery. The warrant was issued at once, but up until a late hour last night Mrs. Fieldhouse had not been arrested. The hearing is set for 7 o'clock tonight and a sensation is promised.

Neither Prof. Cotton nor Supt. Terrill was at home when a Gazette reporter

MR. ROOSEVELT WILL RETAIN HIS ENTIRE CABINET

Shaw, Hitchcock and Moody Decide to Remain for the Winter.

BY URGENT REQUEST

Members of the President's Official Family Yield to His Wishes.

SERVICES ARE IMPERATIVE

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau.
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.

Official announcement was made today that there would be no changes in the President's cabinet this winter. Secretary of the Treasury Shaw was summoned to the White House today and requested to remain in office for a few months longer. After he and the President had talked the matter over thoroughly, Secretary Shaw consented to stay until the adjournment of this session of congress. He had made all preparations to leave the cabinet on February 1, when he would have completed four years at the head of the department.

His two daughters are now in Europe and he and Mrs. Shaw had planned to leave here early in the spring and join them abroad for an extended vacation. But when the President stated that he wanted Mr. Shaw to remain in the cabinet this winter the secretary canceled all these plans and agreed to remain. Secretary Shaw had even given up his house here and is now living at the Arlington hotel. Upon his return from Europe in the fall he had planned to go in business at his home at Denison, Ia.

Mr. Shaw's Services Needed.

There are good reasons for President Roosevelt wishing Secretary Shaw to stay in the cabinet this winter. The Panama canal bonds are to be floated and there are other important matters pending with which the treasury department will have much to do. To make a change in this portfolio in the middle of a congressional session would be very embarrassing to the administration and would entail many complications. This has now all been avoided by Secretary Shaw's promise to remain.

In this connection it was also announced today that Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock would also stay in the cabinet this winter, and would not resign until the land fraud cases had all been disposed of. Mr. Hitchcock had intended retiring to private life before the first of the year, though the public had not been informed that any date for his resignation had been set. He has done very effective work in cleaning up his branch of the government service and in rooting out the land frauds. One United States senator, two congressmen and a large number of other officials and private individuals are now under indictment, and it is the President's wish that Mr. Hitchcock stay at his post until these cases have all been tried. This the secretary has agreed to do.

Attorney General Moody, Too.

Attorney General Moody, who wanted to retire from the cabinet and resume the practice of law when he was transferred from the navy portfolio to the law department, has promised to stay a few months longer. It is well known that in remaining in Washington Mr. Moody is making a very great sacrifice of his personal interests since he has in view a partnership in a law firm in Boston that will bring him returns far greater than the salary he receives from the government. But there are many important cases pending before the department of justice which the President wishes to have wound up before Mr. Moody retires.

For some time the President has been rather annoyed by reports published in anti-administration newspapers to the effect that his cabinet is disintegrating and is about to be broken up by these intended resignations. To refute these reports the information that these cabinet members would stay was given to the public today. L. W. STRAYER.

TRIAL OPENS NEXT MONDAY.

Men Charged With Death of Susan Geary and Hiding Her Body Will Face a Jury.

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—At a conference today between District Attorney Sughrue and counsel for the defendants, it was decided to begin the trial of the various persons indicted in connection with the death of Susan Geary next Monday.

The defendants include Dr. Percy D. McLeod, who is charged with dismembering the body of the chorus girl; William Hunt and Lewis Crawford, who confessed to disposing of the dismembered parts.

LARGE DEFICIT IN ROAD FUND OF COUNTY IN 1905

Unpaid Improvement Bills Will Reach Almost $1,000,000.

PRICE WANTS ADVICE

Commissioner Would Like to Hear from Public on the Size of the Next Bond Issue.

IT CAN BE MADE $3,750,000

There will be a deficit in the county road fund for the year of upward of $1,000,000. It has been caused by the county commissioners endeavoring to build more improved highways than they had the money to pay for. The debt will be wiped out by a bond issue.

In the past the commissioners have been issuing from $500,000 to $750,000 worth of road bonds each year. Under an act of assembly passed at the last session of the legislature, they have the privilege of issuing up to five mills on the total valuation of the taxable property of the county, provided they secure the consent of the grand jury and the court of quarter sessions. With a valuation of $750,000,000 the county can issue $3,750,000 worth of bonds next year.

Commissioner Price says the question must be met by the new board of commissioners soon after its organization in January. The deficit at present is over $800,000, so an issue of $750,000 would not even wipe out the debt.

Want to Hear from the People.

Mr. Price wants to hear from the newspapers and the public on the proposition of issuing the full limit and building about 200 miles of roads, making the total improved highways in the county about 400 miles. If the people are opposed to this he would like to get an idea of what sized issue they do want.

Mr. Price is of the opinion that at least $1,500,000 worth of bonds should be issued. This will wipe out the debt and leave about $700,000 for new work and the cost of maintenance. The maintenance item was about $72,000 this year and will be about $80,000 next. It increases as the mileage grows.

Below are given the amounts of unpaid estimates for this year. The county has not paid any estimates for a number of weeks. They will all have to be cared for out of the proceeds of the 1906 bond issue. The list follows:

Total Deficit of $800,000.

This makes a total deficit of $801,825 38. Mr. Price says this total will grow some.

A road tax of four-tenths of one mill is now levied. The money received from this goes into the sinking fund to pay off the bonded indebtedness caused by the improvement of roads and to pay the interest. With an increased bond issue a slight increase will be necessary in the road tax. The large end of the road tax is paid by the property owners in the city. It is from them Mr. Price is especially desirous of hearing. He believes there should be a free discussion of the proposition before the new board takes action. In order to permit this he gave out the figures showing the deficit.

The commissioners will also have to provide $1,250,000 for the soldiers' memorial hall voted by the people at the recent election. Mr. Price says it has not been decided whether this money will be raised by an increased tax levy or by a bond issue.

MANY REFORMS ARE PROPOSED

Board of Trade Wants Personal Registration, Also Aldermen's Fees Abolished.

BETTER LIGHT IS DEMANDED

A number of reforms and local improvements, including the abolition of the fee system in the office of alderman, the passage by the state legislature of a personal registration bill, better street lights in the East End, better street car facilities on the Frankstown avenue line, the reduction of speed of street cars and automobiles, were proposed last night at the regular monthly meeting of the Pittsburgh board of trade.

On motion of W. S. Miller a committee of five was appointed to secure the enactment of a law to reform the city aldermanic courts. By abolishing the fee system and placing the alderman upon a salary it is expected to reduce the number of appeals taken to the county courts. On this committee were appointed W. S. Miller, H. L. Castle, J. S. Harrison, S. W. Stenecipher and R. B. Petty.

C. S. Cochran, chairman of the committee on the special session of the legislature, reported on the personal registration act drafted by the Voters' Civic league of Philadelphia. The bill provides for the affidavits of voters before a registry board of three members, named by the court, in districts of 2,500 voters, the board to sit five days before general elections and three days before municipal elections. The object of the measure is to eliminate the class of voters known as "floaters," and to minimize fraud at elections.

The committee will not make a report on Greater Pittsburgh until the December meeting, not yet having obtained the necessary information.

Dr. Rodger Williams and A. G. Roenigk, delegates to the eleventh annual convention of the Ohio Valley Improvement association at Cairo, Ill., made an informal report but will submit a written one later. A communication from George W. Ryan concerning the crowded condition of the Frankstown avenue cars and a resolution by E. A. Hamberger on the speed of street cars and automobiles, were referred to the committee on transportation and railroads.

The board voted to hold the annual banquet in January, and authorized the president to appoint a committee on arrangements.

An interesting exhibit of the movements of the old-time hall clocks is to be seen on the first floor at the establishment of Dauler, Close & Johns, on Smithfield st., 656-660. These movements are exposed in a monster glass case, and the complete workings can be seen, with the chimes, tubes, gongs, etc., all in action. This is not only interesting to buyers of hall clocks, but is very instructive to any who take the time to examine these old-fashioned timepieces, now so much in vogue, and of which Dauler, Close & Johns make a special feature.

REGULATE ROAD THAT GOES WRONG

Traffic Club of Pittsburgh Listens to Able Discussion of Railroad Rate Topic.

SCHOONMAKER REMINISCENT

The autumn dinner of the Traffic club of Pittsburgh, held at the Hotel Schenley last night, proved to be almost as large and as gala an affair as the annual dinners each spring. Col. J. M. Schoonmaker of Pittsburgh, the Hon. John B. Cockrum of Indianapolis, and J. C. Whitney of Baltimore, handled subjects of import in a masterful manner, while other speakers filled out the program to a good literary feast.

Almost all the members were present and in addition, there were a score or more of invited guests. President D. F. Hurd acted as toastmaster. Col. Schoonmaker spoke on a reminiscent line, although his subject as assigned was "Camaraderie in Business." His address dealt with early transportation here, and then with the facilities of the present day, with reference to the growth of Pittsburgh industries.

Mr. Cockrum, general attorney of the Lake Erie & Western, whose subject was "Regulation of Railway Rates," dealt with the subject in a masterful manner, showing that the higher railroad interests of the country are well versed on what he termed "a very broad and patriotic suoject." He said that the state grants eminent domain to the railroad and thus has a right to public service, but that this service must not be such as to deteriorate from the condition of the property for service. The power of the law must not destroy. Railroads must operate in good times or bad, while industrial concerns can stop their works without public hurt. The value of service should be the basis of rates.

He spoke of discrimination being in several forms, among which were: Rebates, special contracts, payment of percentages, underbilling, private car line abuses, private terminals or switches and the changing of destination in transit. The regulation of rates by the government would do nothing else than tend toward government ownership and the employment of another army of government employes. Law should regulate the road that goes wrong. Let the railroads have the right to fix the rates. The government might do well to have an inspector to see that the roads go right, just as there are inspectors for internal revenue and other phases of public interest.

Mr. Whitney's subject, "The Merchant Marine," was treated in a manner such as one would expect from one who has been identified with such service for 30 years. He is vice president of the Merchants and Miners Transportation Company. He treated of the growth of the coastwise merchant service and of the relations between the railroads and the steamer routes. A. L. Ralston sang "A Popular Ballad," which proved to be very popular, as it was written by F. A. Butterworth, the club's historian and bard, and included a number of names of well known members. Mr. Butterworth himself spoke of "The Press—In Several Shades," treating the subject in an amusing advisory manner from his point of view. Among the other speakers were Vice President Worthington of the Wabash, and the Hon. J. M. Stutsman and George P. Early of Indianapolis.

William L. Shafer, the railroad editor of The Gazette, made reply to Mr. Butterworth's effort and worked in a doggerel that devoted lines to over 100 members of the club, his reference to each by name being greeted with laughter and applause.

The menu consisted solely of "Beefsteak Dinner, a la Schenley," but the dinner itself was a banquet to be enjoyed.

LASHES THE TEACHER

called at the former's house last night. Mrs. Terrill refused to discuss the matter other than to assert that the attack was absolutely unwarranted, and that Prof. Cotton is entirely blameless so far as any persecution of the Fieldhouse lad is concerned. It is said among his pupils, that Prof. Cotton is considered one of the most lenient teachers in the schools.

Mr. Fieldhouse, who is foreman of the foundry at the Edgar Thomson works at Braddock, said that at the hearing they would attempt to prove that their son had not been properly treated. On Saturday last Fieldhouse went before the high school faculty and demanded some satisfaction for what he considered the persecution of his son. The chief cause of complaint was that two weeks ago, shortly before the lad played truant and went on the farm in Westmoreland county, some one had placed water on the seat in the school room. When the lad sat down in the pool, he used a book with a red cover to protect himself from the water, and the color came off on his trousers. When called to the front of the room to explain, the boy sided up, holding the book behind him and so awkward was his approach that Prof. Cotton told him to go back and walk up in a proper manner. When the other pupils saw the situation, they could not restrain their mirth, and the lad felt the taunt so keenly that the next day he ran away from home.

Owing to the alleged unpopularity of Supt. Terrill it was reported that several citizens of the town had withdrawn their children from the schools. Thomas Addenbrook, a member of the school board, and R. W. Cummins, president of the borough council, mentioned among these dissatisfied ones, both entered denials. Mr. Addenhouse said he was opposed to the re-election of Supt. Terrill last June.

The Republicans of the town, in the election in February last, had in their platform the retirement of Supt. Terrill, and the attack on Prof. Cotton has revived all the animosity and bitterness of that fight.

sity of employing electricity to assist him in shadowing a criminal, but after a careful survey of the field Perkins decided this must be resorted to. Accordingly, the money drawers in the Baltimore & Ohio station, the postoffice and the St. Charles hotel were fitted with automatic alarms. For a week the detectives waited, but the thieves eluded them. The only hope held out was that he never failed to visit the hotel. In the meantime came reports of continued work in all the surrounding towns.

The pay station booth in the St. Charles is in the corridor on the second floor. Its patrons use it mostly for long-distance calls, and these bring in big revenues. Not infrequently a conversation is held which results in several dollars being dropped into the slot. The telephone is almost constantly in use and a week's income sometimes exceeds $50.

Men on Guard Were Fooled.

Perkins decided this would be a good place for thief-catching. Walter W. Perkins, superintendent of the detective bureau, rigged up an automatic key on the drawer of the telephone and by means of a long coil of wire connected it with a bell in one of the rooms of the hotel. Here he took an extra operative, a bundle of books and magazines, and waited.

The detective read and smoked between trips along the corridor, when he would take a casual glance to see whether or not the booth was occupied. The wires connecting the alarm with the mechanism of the drawer were exposed for a few inches underneath the box, but it was thought that this would not be noticed. After several days of waiting a calamity came. Somebody carefully clipped the wires, opened the box and ran away with the money. And no alarm was given.

This happened almost before the eyes of the detective. A less patient operative might have been discouraged, but it was a victory in disguise. It proved that the man who was robbing the boxes was experienced in the work and one that was not likely to be caught napping in his craft.

The telephone booth was rigged up again. The wires connecting the alarm with the drawer were inserted from the back of the booth by drilling tiny holes through the partition and through the steel lining of the box, concealing them completely from the front. At the same time the broken wires in the front were repaired and the insulation was carefully drawn over them. A heavy-laden weight attached to a fine silk cord was fixed in the drawer so that it would drop and automatically prevent the drawer from being closed in case it should be drawn out.

Caught Like a Mouse in a Trap.

Again the detectives waited. Shortly before 8 o'clock last Tuesday night a young man walked into the hotel and found the telephone booth occupied. He sat down in the writing room and waited. A few minutes later the alarm bell in the detectives' room rang loudly. At last the thief had been discovered.

Perkins and his assistant made a dash out of the room and along the corridor. On the stool in the booth sat David Simon.

"What are you doing here?" snapped out the detective.

"Telephoning," innocently answered the man.

"Then why don't you take down the receiver, and what are you doing with the money drawer open?" asked Perkins.

Simon was taken to the detectives' room and was closely questioned, but he refused to give up. He told, however, that he lived in McKeesport, and that he was employed by the Bell people as their contract solicitor in the McKeesport district. An information against "John Doe," charging malicious mischief, had already been sworn out and the man was held on this.

On the following morning Supt. Perkins, armed with a search warrant, went with Constable Weitzell to Simon's home at 646 May street, McKeesport. The search revealed valuable additional evidence. In a collar box on the top of the dresser in Simon's room were scores of letters. About half way down the box inside in one of the envelopes was found a key which could be used in unlocking a telephone money drawer. It matched a similar key which had been found on the man when he was arrested. Farther down in the collar box and concealed in another envelope was found another key. Then a master key, the original of the others, was uncovered. Still farther down was another. Altogether six keys were found.

Long Chase After Confederate.

Simon was rearrested on a charge of larceny and held under $2,500 bail, which was furnished by Israel Simon, secretary and treasurer of the McKeesport Realty Company.

The search revealed plainly that confederates were employed. The name of John McMichaels, a McKeesport young man, who a short time before had resigned from the employ of the telephone company, was mentioned as knowing much about Simon's actions. A few days previously McMichaels had gone to Mercer county to hunt pheasants.

It was necessary to catch McMichaels, and Supt. Perkins started after him the same night, taking the midnight train to Franklin and driving across the county from Sandy Lake to the farm of G. F. Cole, which the former telephone man was using as a game preserve. Perkins arrived there in the morning and was told by Cole that young McMichaels had gone down to the woods to shoot birds. This was proved a moment later when two shots were heard in rapid succession. Cole went after the young man and brought him to the house.

"I have a warrant for your arrest on the charge of conspiracy," said the detective.

"Conspiracy! Who makes that charge against me?"

"Did you ever hear of Mr. Herron?"

"He's treasurer of the Bell Telephone Company."

"And he is the man who makes the charge against you."

"Pshaw! You've spoiled all my hunting. I had started up three birds when Mr. Cole came along and said you wanted to see me."

It was apparent that McMichaels understood the whole case. He was brought back to Pittsburgh and likewise held under $2,500 bond.

McMichaels Made Clean Breast.

At the hearing yesterday afternoon the telephone company was represented by Attorney C. A. O'Brien. Testimony was taken before Alderman King on two charges against Simon. McMichaels was the star witness and, although he is a defendant in the conspiracy suit, he made a clean breast of his dealings with Simon and Frank I. Coleman. He stated that he received none of the money, but had hesitated about telling the company on account of his friendship for fellow-employes.

His testimony in substance was that Simon and Coleman had approached him on the subject of robbing the boxes and had offered him a set of the keys which had been designed from the master key by a McKeesport locksmith. He said he threw the keys into the river, and declared that he would have nothing to do with their scheme, knowing well that they would be caught.

Later on he said that he accompanied Simon on several expeditions from Pittsburgh to towns in the Monongahela valley and as far away as Greensburg, East Liverpool, Oil City, Franklin, Uniontown, Latrobe and Johnstown, and once Simon had gone to Buffalo. He testified that on these trips Simon always found it necessary to use long distance telephones, but he denied seeing any of the money that was supposed to have been taken.

Detective C. H. Hall and Supt. Perkins testified to the story of Simon's capture, and described in detail the automatic alarm which had been arranged for the thief's capture. McMichaels is less than 20 years of age, although he looks much older. McMichaels said he resigned from the telephone company because he knew the work that was going on, but felt that he could not inform on his friends. He said that $300 of the money taken had been deposited in the First National bank of Uniontown. Simon looks to be 25 years of age. He has traveled extensively and has an unusually alert eye. He was employed by the telephone company about 11 months ago.

More Conspirators to Be Caught.

After half a dozen witnesses had been examined, Attorney O'Brien asked that the hearing be continued until next Monday afternoon. At that time it is expected that additional witnesses will be procured and that others will have been arrested. It is thought that six or seven men are in the alleged conspiracy. Among the effects found on Simon was a pair of curiously-fashioned folding steel shears. With this, it is said, he clipped the wires which connected the visible alarm wires on the coin drawers.

In Simon's trips around the surrounding towns he used the alias "Alex D. Cohen" in placing his name on the hotel registers. McMichaels recognized this signature at hotels in several Allegheny valley towns. It is probable that another arrest in the case will be made today. At the hearing next Monday the entire system used in robbing the company is likely to be exposed.

STRUGGLE AGAINST DEATH

who clung to the mast. They were rescued by the steamer Ada at 10 o'clock Sunday morning after having endured 12 hours of agony.

In response to the captain's appeal, when he found it would be useless to attempt to launch the boats, all the women and children were mustered in the main hatch and the stewardesses fixed life belts around each of them, the French onion sellers assisting in the work. Everybody was very quiet. Gunter says there were about 20 persons on the rigging when the vessel foundered. He describes pathetically how the men gradually dropped off exhausted by the terrible cold, and says the roar of the elements was awful. As the men fell off they ejaculated:

"We have had enough of this. It does not matter how we die. Goodby."

Gunter himself fought against a strong inclination to sleep, and says that before his rescue he cared little what became of him.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—Special reports received here of the wreck of the steamer Hilda give a graphic description of the disaster. Owing to the rough sea, together with a thick snow storm, the captain of the Hilda probably took the buoy light of the rocks for the St. Malo lighthouse. He gave signals which were not seen by the harbor employes, and then the steamer proceeded slowly towards the light.

When the Hilda struck the rocks the steamer's boilers exploded and she was cut in two, giving the passengers no time to save their lives. Seven bodies wearing life belts were stranded off the village of St. Cast yesterday evening. The coast near St. Malo is covered with wreckage and some cattle. Two-thirds of the Hilda's passengers were French farmers returning to France with heavy sums in gold from the sale of their yearly harvest of onions and potatoes. The others were English families who were going to spend the winter at Dinard. The wreck lies on the beach three miles off St. Malo, showing only her mainmast and forecastle.

A correspondent of the Matin went to the scene of the wreck on a government steamer with the local officials. They picked up five bodies which were entangled in the rigging of the Hilda. The bodies presented a dreadful spectacle, with arms and legs twisted and hands torn with desperate struggling.

DEFEATED CANDIDATE QUESTIONS HIS RIVAL

J. Rankin Martin Asks Judge-Elect Holt a Few Things About His Campaign Methods.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

BEAVER, PA., Nov. 20.—An unusual scene was presented here today when a defeated candidate for judge of the county courts had an opportunity of plying his successful rival with questions about how the latter had conducted his campaign. The incident came about in the preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Stephen Minor in a libel suit brought by Judge-elect R. S. Holt against James R. Patterson, the defeated candidate at the Republican primaries for register and recorder.

Holt alleged that Patterson had circulated as a campaign document an affidavit that in a conversation with Holt the latter had told Patterson he would not state William Peacock, the defeated candidate for sheriff, because Peacock was a Catholic. The suit was brought before the election, but the hearing was delayed until today. Patterson was held for court under $500 bail.

Patterson was represented at the hearing by J. Rankin Martin, whom Holt defeated for the judgeship. Holt was represented by Attorney J. Frank Reed, who had managed his campaign.

BABY CAUSES PATHETIC SCENE AT MURDER TRIAL

James I. Harbison Sobs While His Little Daughter Clings to Him in Court Room.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 20.—The trial of James I. Harbison, charged with murdering Louis V. Bergman whom he found with his wife on the night of July 3, was resumed this morning. A pathetic scene was presented when the mother of the accused entered the court room leading the 3-year-old daughter of the defendant. It was the first time the child had seen her father since the beginning of the trial. The little one climbed to her father's knee, kissed him and threw her arms about his neck while he sobbed.

Chief of Police W. W. McDowell testified to having secured from Harbison a statement that he had shot Bergman, who said he had gone to the house and at the door of his wife's room heard her and Bergman talking. He listened for a while and then broke into the room and shot Bergman four times.

Dr. H. C. Eyman, superintendent of the state hospital, who recently examined Harbison, will be among the insanity experts to be called by the defense.

MAY CUT OUT CONCERNS DOING SURETY BUSINESS

State Funds May Be Refused Companies Engaged in This Class of Business.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, Nov. 20.—For the better protection of the public funds in the state depositories in Pennsylvania, the board of revenue commissioners, at the next meeting, may adopt a rule prohibiting the deposit of state funds in any trust company that does a surety business. Members of the board who have given the matter careful thought, say that nearly all the failures of trust companies in Pennsylvania have been due to such institutions engaging in the surety business.

In every case where new bonds are being taken by the board they are signed by every member of the board of directors, in addition to the securities now being required from surety companies. Governor Pennypacker is taking an active interest in the examination by Secretary of the Commonwealth McAfee and his colleagues on the board of revenue commissioners of the bonds filed in the treasury department by the state depositories.

The governor agrees with Attorney General Carson that Secretary McAfee and Auditor General Snyder have equal authority with State Treasurer Mathues in the selection of the state depositories and the approval of their bonds.

RAWLINGS WRECK IS CHARGED TO ENGINEER

McManamie Testifies Before Coroner's Jury That He Fell Asleep While Standing.

He was sleepy and started to eat in order to keep awake, but went to sleep standing, and failed to awaken until it was too late.

UNITARIANS CANNOT GET INTO FEDERATION

Federation of Churches Decide Not to Admit Liberal Bodies to the Council.

[Special Telegram From J. H. RALSTON, Staff Correspondent.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The question of the constituency of the first federal council, to convene in December, 1908, was settled this morning by the inter-church conference by the rejection of certain amendments touching that question. There were no material changes in the plan as reported Saturday, and with the exception of the matter of constituency it was adopted with little discussion.

The afternoon meeting was in the interest of evangelism, and the Rev. Lemuel Call Barnes, D. D., of Worcester, Mass., formerly of Pittsburgh, presided, the Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, D. D., and the Rev. N. D. Hillis, D. D., being among the speakers. The evening session belonged to laymen exclusively as far as the speaking was concerned. Judge Peter S. Grosscup of Chicago, Justice David J. Brewer of Washington, D. C., and Dean Henry Wade Rogers of Yale university spoke on various phases of "The United Church and the National Life."

When the consideration of the plan of federation came up Prof. James Quayle Dealey of Brown university offered three resolutions with the avowed purpose of admitting Unitarians and Universalists, and possibly other liberal bodies. This incited Dr. S. J. Niccolls of St. Louis to make a plea for clear deliverance as to the Lordship of Christ, and when he finally moved that the word "divine" be placed before the words "Lord and Saviour" in the preamble, he had his plea granted by a vote of all the delegates except Prof. Dealey.

Dr. Barnes favored the principle of Prof Dealey's resolutions, and being the only delegate to speak in favor of them the evidence was clear that outside of New England, the opinion of the delegates was unanimous in rejecting any Unitarian basis.

Tomorrow several resolutions touching Christian co-operation in service will be presented so as to furnish a basis for the immediate influence of the federal council. A resolution as to closer relations between the press and the churches will be introduced, backed by the many religious editors present.

CUBAN PLOT IMPLICATES MEN OF PROMINENCE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

HAVANA, Nov. 20.—Evidence obtained by the committee which is investigating the discovery by the secret police Saturday last of a considerable quantity of arms, ammunition and accoutrements in a house in the Cerro suburb is tending to implicate a few men of some prominence. The government has no doubt that the materials came from the United States, and it is seeking to learn who were the purchasers.

Government officials now admit that they have received various secret advices regarding contemplated uprisings before election day in various parts of the island, with a probable attack on the palace in Havana. The object of the latter, according to the officials, appears to be the removal, possibly by assassination, of President Palma.

The plotters, it is pointed out, are well aware since there is now no vice president that the election of President Palma's successor would, according to the constitution, be in the hands of congress, and that the Liberals could control both houses.

LOYAL TO BIGAMIST.

Pittsburgh Woman Wants Him Punished but Wife No. 2 Will Stand by Him in His Hour of Need.

DENVER, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Frederick Gross of Pittsburgh is under arrest here on the charge of bigamy.

"I'll have him punished to the full extent of the law," declared Mrs. Annie Friedman Gross of Pittsburgh, wife No. 1. In this she is backed up by her uncle, Max Friedman, the Pittsburgh councilman.

"He'll not go to the penitentiary if I can help it," answered Margaret Kubik Gross, wife No. 2. "Tomorrow I'll sell my furniture in my little home and use the money in employing a lawyer. My husband loves me and I love him, and I'm going to stay by him."

WOMAN STOPS OPERATION.

Surgeons Prevented from Working on Patient With Fractured Skull.

Mrs. Margaret Liston, aged 44, of 23 Hartford street, South Side, was struck by an eastbound Carson street car last night at Carson and South Eighth streets, shortly after 7 o'clock. She was removed to the South Side hospital and her sister, Mrs. B. Sexton, summoned. The physicians informed Mrs. Sexton that the injured woman was suffering from a fractured skull and that an immediate operation was necessary to save her life.

Mrs. Sexton refused to give her consent to having the operation until the woman's husband and son were consulted. Mrs. Sexton knew nothing of the whereabouts of either, and it was nearly 11 o'clock when the husband was located. He promptly advised the operation and it was performed. The woman is in a critical condition and will likely die.

DESCENDANT OF PENN.

The London Times of November contained an account of the marriage of Lady Constance Knox Gaskell, eldest daughter of the fifth earl of Ranfurly and a descendant from William Penn. The earl passed through Philadelphia last spring on his way from New Zealand, of which colony he was governor for seven years, and was shown many courtesies by the citizens of the Quaker City.

Lord Ranfurly is taking much interest in promoting the commemoration of the worthy jury who won the right of juries to give their verdicts according to their convictions and not at the dictation of the judges. It is probable that a mural tablet will be placed on the site of the Old Bailey, where the memorial trial of William Penn took place in 1670.

TWO NEW DRAFTS ARE SUBMITTED

Tredway and Adams Prepare Senatorial Apportionment and G. H. Stengel Has Plan.

LATTER OFFERS A REWARD

Two new senatorial apportionment drafts were put out yesterday. Register George H. Stengel appeared with one in the morning, and in the evening W. T. Tredway and James L. Adams issued a new one. Both will be found below.

Tredway and Adams admit the point raised on them concerning Lackawanna county, by Senator Phillips of Lawrence is correct. Lackawanna is not entitled to two senators. For this reason a new bill had to be made. Mr. Tredway said they had completed their draft before the Stengel scheme was made public.

Mr. Tredway admits an interesting question has been raised in the proposition of giving Chester and Delaware each a senator, because they adjoin counties which are each entitled to one or more senators. He says: "Inasmuch as no county, unless surrounded by others, which are entitled to one or more senators, can have a senator on less than four-fifths of a ratio, the question arises whether Delaware and Chester disqualify each other or whether they do not qualify each other. When the constitution is read from its four corners, the proposition becomes very interesting."

*When the 1874 apportionment was made Lackawanna county had not been erected. It was created out of Luzerne in 1878, and the senatorial district still overlaps into Luzerne.

Mr. Tredway says the above table shows that when the present apportionment was made in 1874, it was necessary then as it is now to make some districts with small populations.

The Stengel Draft.

Register George H. Stengel gave out an apportionment bill yesterday morning. He says that while there are some inequalities insofar as the population of districts is concerned, this cannot be avoided. He offers a reward of $100 to any person who can show that his plan does not comply strictly with the constitutional provisions. The person thinking he has found a defect is to submit the question to any three members of the Allegheny county bar, and Mr. Stengel will be governed by their decision. Mr. Tredway says there are some districts in the Stengel apportionment which are not so equitable as ones prepared by him. The Stengel draft follows:

District No.	Counties.	District Population.
1— 8	Philadelphia	1,293,697
9	Chester-Delaware	190,457

WILL NOT WASTE TIME ON CANAL

President Wants the Present Generation to Benefit by the Waterway.

MONEY NEEDED IMMEDIATELY

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.

It is possible that the Panama canal may not be built at sea level. It is President Roosevelt's idea not to build a canal for posterity merely, but he wants one that the present generation will have the benefit of and one that can be built practically in the shortest time. If it is decided by the canal commission that to adopt the recommendation of the consulting engineers and build a sea-level canal would delay the completion of the project for five years or more beyond the time limit set for finishing a lock canal, the President will use his influence to have the lock canal plan adopted. At any rate the question is one for congress to decide in the end, though that decision will doubtless be influenced largely by the views of the President.

While it is generally understood that the consulting engineers, being men of high professional standing in this country, England, Germany, France and Holland, would wield a great influence in determining this important question with regard to the isthmian canal, yet they were employed only in an advisory capacity and for the purpose of offering recommendations. They are not clothed with any authority beyond this. Their opinions will be given grave consideration by the canal commission and the President, but from the intimation that was given today President Roosevelt will give a great deal of thought to the question of time.

Senator Morgan of Alabama, who fought so obstinately and stubbornly for the Nicaraguan route, says in an interview today that he will vote for any measure to provide the President with ample funds to push the work of building the canal. This makes it quite certain that one of the first acts of congress will be the passage of a bill to appropriate money for carrying on the work.

An estimate of $16,000,000 for continuing work on the Panama canal has been sent to the treasury department from the war department, to be sent to congress. The estimate is for expenditure up to and including the fiscal year ending June 30, 1907. A part of this money will be necessary at once and an emergency appropriation will be asked as soon as congress convenes, in order that the work may proceed. It is stated at the offices of the commission today that unless money is provided as soon as congress convenes all work must cease.

DAUGHERTY IS BADLY HURT.

It is Said Slopsky Gabor Attacked Him With an Iron Bar.

Anthony Daugherty, aged 53 of East Pittsburgh, was found early yesterday morning at the McGeary & Gibson stone quarry in a dying condition, as the result of an attack alleged to have been made Sunday night by Slopsky Gabor. It is alleged Gabor beat Daugherty with an iron bar. The latter sustained a fractured skull, four broken ribs and a fracture of the arm, in addition to half a dozen scalp wounds.

Miss Della Daugherty, an East Pittsburgh school teacher, went before Justice John G. Richards of North Braddock yesterday and made information against Gabor in behalf of her father, charging felonious assault and battery.

KEEN ON TRAIL OF RED HEADED, ONE-EYED MAN

Lee Foster of 923 Carson street excitedly entered No. 7 police station yesterday afternoon and told Capt. Henry J. Alt that he would pay a reward of $10 for the capture of a "red-headed, one-eyed man who looked like a Jew," and who, he said, had run away with his wife and $100. Foster said that his wife had hired a man of the above graphic description to move her trunk and satchel from her home at noon. When he came home to dinner he found her gone and also $100. He told Capt. Alt that he did not care for the woman, but needed the money.

Goes to Sons in St. Petersburg.

The Rev. John Nedzelnitzky, pastor of the Russian orthodox church, Vine and Reed streets, yesterday received word from his wife, who left recently for St. Petersburg. Their two sons are students in a university there. Owing to disorders in the country, Mrs. Nedzelnitzky inquired at the Russian embassy in Berlin as to the safety of travel and was assured she took no risk in making the journey. She is now on her way to the Russian capital.

Poplar Alley Resort Raided.

The alleged disorderly house of Belle Strange, a Poplar alley negress, was raided last night by Acting Police Lieutenant John Dean and a squad of policemen. The woman, six other negresses and two negroes were locked in the Center avenue police station.

ACCEPTS NORWAY'S THRONE.

Crown is Formally Presented to Prince Charles of Denmark at a Brilliant Ceremony.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 20.—The throne of Norway was formally tendered to Prince Charles of Denmark this morning by a deputation of members of the Norwegian parliament and was accepted by King Christian in behalf of his grandson. The scene was brilliant as the ceremony was attended by all the princes and princesses and their suites, the diplomatic corps, including the American minister, Mr. O'Brien, and the high court officials.

The old king was much affected as he blessed and embraced his grandchildren, King Haakon VII. and Queen Maud. The close of the ceremony was signalized by the firing of a royal salute. An enormous crowd gathered in front of the palace and gave a rousing reception to the new king and queen of Norway as they left the palace in a gilded state chariot.

VETERAN OF PHILIPPINES TO GET SOLDIER'S BURIAL

John Anshutz, aged 30, a machinist of Thirty-eighth street, died yesterday of rapid consumption after an illness lasting less than a week. Anshutz served through the Philippine campaign, following the Spanish war, and it is said contracted in the islands the illness that brought death upon him. As he has no known relatives arrangements have been made to bury him in the soldiers' plot in Allegheny cemetery, and to have a detail from the Arsenal attend the services.

Sale of Exchanged Pianos.

An Important Sale of Ostrich Plumes.

We don't know when ostrich plumes were so fashionable as they are at present. Every woman admires them and thousands of feminine Pittsburgers are wearing them today. Some women have held off buying them because of the price, which usually runs pretty high as compared with other trimmings.

This sale will make it possible for every woman who wants to have one, and a good plume at that.

There are two lengths, 14 and 16 inches, broad, hard flues, with fine glossy finish. The colors are black, white, light blue, wine, brown and navy.

The 14-inch Plumes will sell for $2.00.
The 16-inch Plumes will sell for $2.50.

At the same time we will sell beautiful gardenias, pink, green and light blue roses, gold and silver roses, gold and silver novelty pieces. Speaking of the roses there are three in a bunch beside the foliage. The regular price is $1.00—special today a bunch, 50c.

Tuesday, November 21, 1905.

Cordial indorsement of the legislative program of Gov. Pennypacker was given by the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce yesterday. The chamber will, as before, take an active part in the preparation for the Greater Pittsburgh bill and will lend more or less aid to the other measures proposed. It is to be commended for its interest in this matter.

Yesterday's report of the British colonial government's successful interference in the anti-American boycott at Singapore is in cheerful contrast to last week's dispatches expressing the serious nature of the situation. This boycott was difficult to handle because instituted by Chinese merchants in a British dependency. The colonial government has tried moral suasion with good effect, and the resulting benefits to American trade will also be shared by the port of Singapore.

There have been fresh attacks on the Jews of the Kishineff district, including murders and outrages. The Russian government—what is left of it—is either unable or unwilling to give protection to its citizens. There is no means apparent by which such protection can be compelled, even if other nations were willing to demand it. It is possible, however, for citizens of other countries to contribute to the relief of the suffering. That is being done, especially by Americans, and there is need for much more generosity to meet the necessities of the case.

Yesterday's demonstration of London's unemployed, who marched through the streets to Hyde Park, where speeches were made urging parliamentary legislation for their relief, was significant because of the personnel of the parade. The great majority of those who took part, according to the dispatches, were able-bodied workmen anxious to earn an honest living, but really unable to find employment. There can be no doubt London is facing a serious situation, and the suggestion that parliament initiate public works, upon which many thousands can be employed, may afford one solution of the difficulty.

Speaking at Kansas City last night, Secretary Taft reiterated and emphasized his former statement concerning American duties and responsibilities in the Philippines, remarking that the present generation will hardly see the independence of the islands. The reasons why the present policy must prevail for many years to come have been clearly set forth by Judge Taft in public addresses since his return from the Philippines, and the significant silence of those who once were wont to raise their voices in loud disapproval of "imperialism" evidences their deference to the man who knows, from having been on the ground, what he is talking about.

The sailing of the cruiser Minneapolis from Cherbourg for Cronstadt, in order to afford a refuge for American citizens should they find it necessary to leave Russia, is followed by the announcement from the United States representative at St. Petersburg that the northern ports are ice-bound and no vessel can get near the cities. Several recent reports from the American charge d'affaires, Spencer Eddy, declare Americans are in no danger as long as they go quietly about their business and keep away from the rioting. The situation at St. Petersburg is improving and the government would doubtless be able to afford any needed protection to Americans.

George H. Stengel has offered a suggestion on senatorial apportionment and Messrs. Tredway and Adams have prepared a new scheme. Both appear to meet the clear requirements of the constitution, but the constitution itself is obscure on the point whether two or more counties united in one district must have four-fifths of a full ratio, as is required of single counties to form separate districts. Both plans produced yesterday contain districts having less than three-fifths of a full ratio, while other districts exceed one full and two-fifths of a ratio. The exact justice of this is not apparent. Thus one district with a population of 192,000 is given the same representation as another with 65,000—little more than one-third as many.

Reports have been circulated with obvious animus, during the past few days, that no monument to Senator Quay will be erected in the Capitol grounds at Harrisburg. The report, of course, has no foundation. It was intended to arouse opposition and emanated from a clique of vindictives who would scalp their dead in warfare. The monument to Matthew Stanley Quay is proper enough. It is intended to be a tribute to the soldier and statesman, not to the political leader, for Quay was a leader who never feared to trust his cause to the people, rather than a "boss." Wholly aside from this leadership he gave distinguished service to this state and to the nation as soldier, as military secretary, and in many offices held with the approval of a majority of the people.

Time to Look Forward.

So many requests are being made for expansion of the scope of the special session of the legislature, they are defeating their own ends. Had there been a general demand for the addition of one or even two subjects, the governor might have yielded consent. That sort of expression would have indicated crystallized public sentiment. The babel of tongues, on the contrary, is proof of confusion and conflicting opinion. Under the circumstances the governor's safe plan is to adhere to his original program.

To the clamorers for additional legislation one suggestion is pertinent. There will be a regular session of the legislature beginning in January, 1907. For that general assembly there must be an election of all of the members of the house and one-half of the members of the senate. There is an opportunity to select men who are favorable to the proposed reforms. Thus, in a manner, they may be submitted to a vote of the people.

A year is not too long a time for the campaign of education. The state will not go to the dogs for lack of any one particular legislative reform not included in the governor's program during the year that may be devoted to the discussion. In fact the time will be well utilized if given to the formation of definite public opinion as to what is needed. Legislative bodies yield easily to specific popular demands, but are confused when the cries for "reform" are indefinite or contradictory.

Too Good a Game to Lose.

It is to be hoped President Eliot of Harvard will change his mind before another season and not persist in his reported determination to abolish the game of football at that institution. A vote of the Harvard faculty, it is said, has assured President Eliot of its support in his action, however radical it may be. The story at Harvard is that President Eliot, before the famous White House conference on the subject, had decided against the continuance of football at the university, and President Roosevelt's good offices were invoked in its behalf, resulting in his talk with coaches from the three leading football colleges. Now President Eliot is said to be convinced of the impossibility of reforming the game, since Harvard's head coach has declared roughness to be a necessary accompaniment of football, and Harvard's 1905 team will be the last in the field.

Friends of the game are sorry President Eliot did not witness the Yale-Princeton contest at New Haven last Saturday. It was a clean, sportsmanlike exhibition of how the game should be played always. It demonstrated the high standard which is maintained by trained experts, in contrast to the degenerate form which the game too often assumes. No one was injured at New Haven, the utmost good feeling prevailed between the members of opposing teams and the 30,000 spectators were impressed with the true spirit of sport which seemed to animate the students of both institutions. Football is too good a game to be abandoned. It needs reforming and this is to take place before another season, in response to a general demand. It should be modified to a still greater extent for high schools and teams composed of smallboys. There is no better game for strong young men who can receive careful training from experts. Football is a game of hard knocks, and typifies thus the game of life. It makes boys manly, and strong young men stronger. We can't well afford to abandon football.

A Good Showing.

An excellent report is made by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad for the year's operations. Gross earnings of $67,639,997 show an increase over the preceding year of $2,618,916, while expenses increased but $1,081,739, causing a decrease of 1 per cent in the relation of expenses to earnings. After payment of fixed charges and interest the sum of $5,667,194 is carried to surplus account, increasing the total in that fund to more than $9,000,000.

Development of traffic in the Baltimore & Ohio territory is giving the road the largest freight and passenger business in its history, but good management has been required to make out of this business the favorable showing of the report. The personnel of the "Picturesque B. & O." compares favorably with any system in the country and this counts for much in securing successful operation. The general plan pursued since the reorganization under the receivership has made great results possible. The earnings of the year and the surplus are not all of the story. The roadbed and equipment have been brought to a condition never equaled in the system's history. This is the keynote to the increasing percentage of earnings as compared with expenses. Pittsburgh is actively interested because it is the largest traffic producer for the lines and appreciates the service.

The Prince's Visit.

After several "false starts," Prince Louis of Battenberg, who has experienced some difficulty in leaving his kind hosts, has finally departed for Gibraltar. His visit was a pleasant incident which a few Anglophobes tried in vain to mar by their ill-judged demonstrations of displeasure. As the prince says: "From President Roosevelt down, everyone has offered us a cordial welcome. I consider the demonstrations given us as entirely directed toward our country. I am simply the representative of my country, whose people, I am sure, will look upon my kindly reception as an honor to their king and themselves."

The statement of Prince Louis sums up about all the significance connected with his visit. Interested persons have put forth yarns concerning a secret mission of the prince, from King Edward to President Roosevelt, to convey a mysterious and deeply important message bearing upon international relations. The story found little credence among the well-informed. Prince Louis, in the first place, is an admiral of the British navy, not a diplomat. He was born a German and naturalized an Englishman. He is connected with the British royal family in that his mother-in-law was the mother of King Edward. Visits of courtesy from the admirals of the other nations are not unprecedented and have been returned by representatives of our own navy. Our recent visitor's relationship to royalty set society a-flutter and aroused the cranks who are always awaiting a chance to become conspicuous by shouting against something or somebody. The prince seems to be a courteous gentleman whose merits have done much to place him in his present position. He has had a good time here and has seen for himself the kindly feeling with which we regard his countrymen. Any other British admiral would have received as sincerely cordial a welcome from our government and municipal authorities, though he might not have excited so much interest on the part of fashionable society. Best wishes to the prince, and may he come again!

Journalistic.

A city is known by its newspapers. Its enterprise and the public spirit of its citizens are reflected through their columns. This being the case the "Greater Erie" edition of the Erie Times stamps that city as one of the most progressive in the state. This edition of the Times is a publication of 64 pages, treating of the industrial, financial and commercial interests of the community and is a signal triumph of comprehensive writing and illustration. The most striking feature is the fact that all of the elements that entered into the make-up of the special edition were of home skill and production, even the high-grade paper on which the half-tone pictures were printed was manufactured in Erie. These things of themselves speak eloquently for the diversified industries of the city by the lake, exploited at length through the "Greater Erie" edition of our hustling and enterprising contemporary, which will deserve all the congratulations the character of its work will command from the press of the state.

Though far out in the ocean, Prince Louis continues to bombard his recent hosts with wireless messages of thanks. It is safe to say he will give King Edward such an enthusiastic report of American hospitality that the king will be sorry he didn't come over himself.

The "Black Hand" society, which has now taken a hand in the investigation of Ohio's fatal fraternity initiation, has caused more fatalities in this country than all the college fraternities and football put together.

The sultan's renewed prominence in the news of the day will be welcome to those machine humorists who feel it necessary to make the annual remark concerning his country and the approach of Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Chadwick's demand for a hot water bottle set county and government officials by the ears at Cleveland. Mrs. Chadwick is always getting somebody into hot water.

Wu Ting Fang has been appointed a member of China's "board of punishments." It ought to be enough punishment for criminals to have Wu ask them questions.

Prince Louis says nothing in his wireless messages about the souvenir-seekers who rifled his vessels. Probably the "wireless" declines to transmit emphatic language.

Correspondents are busily figuring out jobs for the President after the expiration of his term. One thing is certain—he will not be among the unemployed.

The baptismal font of a Rochester church was draped in mourning because births were so few. Another pointer for the President's message.

Bernhardt has brought with her to this country 150 trunks and enough press agents to advertise their contents to the women of America.

King Alfonso has just denied another matrimonial rumor. Like the rumor of Mark Twain's death, they are greatly exaggerated.

And now they are saying Gen. Funston never swam that river. The average modern hero seems to last about seven years.

Secretary Taft is the greatest traveler of any member of the cabinet. And he covers a deal of ground in his speeches.

The first step in the reformation of football may be to let the Red Cross society look after the wounded.

An $80,000,000 output for the year again answers Bryan's query: "Where will you get the gold?"

If it is necessary to drop any study from the college curriculum, why not drop poker?

Covetous Politicians.

The men who are after the political scalp of Senator Penrose do not propose to give him credit for sincerity in the expression of recent views concerning the results of the state election or the probable action of the extra session. One of them wants his place; probably half a dozen of them.—Altoona Tribune.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS ON WAYS OF WORLD

You Are Not Bound by Your Thoughts of Yesterday.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Some persons think they must stick to what they thought and said in times past, lest they be regarded as inconsistent.

This is not good common sense, since it interferes with progress.

You could argue that the world is cold and cheerless because the sun did not shine yesterday, and the earth was in the shadow.

Today the sun shines, the earth is bright, and all nature is cheerful. Must you, then, in order to be consistent, still contend that the world is cold and cheerless?

Of course not. To do so would be to pronounce yourself a fool, or a crank.

May you not change your views on other matters without being inconsistent?

* * *

This thing of striving to be consistent has spoiled the usefulness of many men possessed of excellent talent. And good men who have changed their views on matters political or otherwise, have had their usefulness destroyed by being called turn-coats.

Not being infallible, man may hold one doctrine to be right, and defend it with all his might for a time, but by receiving new light, or changing his view point, he may become convinced that he was wrong in his conclusions.

What is he to do? His associates will certainly call him renegade, traitor, and other ugly names, and possibly drop a hint to the effect that he had sold out.

A really strong man will not be disturbed by this sort of talk, but those who haven't the courage of their convictions will go on professing to be what they are not, simply to appear consistent.

* * *

Those who become really great, who do things worth while, are those who act upon present convictions. Their effort is to meet the demands of the present rather than to be governed by what was demanded in the past.

That which the times demanded a year ago may not be demanded now. In fact, the present demands may be so greatly modified that they bear but little resemblance of those of a year ago.

Men who hang to the old business ways simply because they were wise and proper in their day, are certain to fall behind in the race, for there are always some who are up-to-date, and ready to take their places.

Most men who have reached the three-score milestone are more or less inclined to look backward, and to feel that the new ways of doing things are not as good as the old ways, so that young, progressive, aggressive men find it necessary to cut loose from them and start up for themselves.

* * *

If all this teaches anything it is that to be successful one must study to know the right as it is today.

Some men are Democrats or Republicans, or Methodists or Baptists, just because their fathers were, and not because of their own convictions founded upon facts as they see them today.

While it is well to study the father's, it is much more important to study present conditions, and thus by comparing these with the conditions that confronted the father's, you can see why their teachings and doctrines do not apply to present times.

It is the independent thinker and actor who sets the pace that leads to success, just as it is the independent artists who establishes schools of art. These paint and work according to their feeling, and not according to the dictates of dead masters.

This is an age of progress, and if you do not show some improvement on your father's you can claim no place among the progressive, the up-to-date, the men of the times.

* * *

All this applies to social and domestic life as well as to business, politics and affairs of the world in general.

A most important part of education is to impress upon the minds of the young the more urgent demands of the times, so that they may shape themselves to fall in with the progressive set.

It ought not to be very difficult to impress upon boys what will be demanded of them when they become men. This impression will have much to do in fitting them for places in the ranks of successful workers.

Girls may be impressed in like manner with the demands that will be made on them when they become women. Knowing this they will, if wisely instructed, fit themselves to become the wives of earnest, honest, progressive men.

* * *

Mr. Quiet Observer—I would like to have another "say" in your column. I wrote some time ago expressing my opinion about work.

Now, Mr. Observer, I don't like what you said about working girls. You seemed to have a doubt about them making good wives. I'd like to know why they wouldn't?

Why should a young man in moderate circumstances want to marry a rich girl, or one of those dependent creatures who depend upon their father or brothers to support them?

One of the dearest friends I have supports her mother, herself, and half the time, a lazy brother. When I say support I mean she pays for everything from the rent to the grocery bill. And still she has found time to learn to be a capital little housekeeper.

Any man might be proud to have her for his wife.

I work in an office from 8 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., but I'm proud to say I can get up as good a meal as any one would want to eat, and I love to cook. I make most of my own hats, and I know lots of girls who do the same, and who do most of their own sewing, and still work in offices, or are employed in some other way.

A girl who is self-supporting knows the value of money. She knows what it means to work for a dollar, and she learns how to make every cent count. Now, isn't that the kind of a wife a young man should want?

I agree with what "Christine" said in your column. I think she is O. K. Would like to meet her.

But I'll tell you, the only reason I'd ever marry would be for love. I would never marry for a home, or for money. If the man never happens to come along whom I can love with my whole heart and soul, I'll remain to the end of the chapter.

THE GIRL WHO WORKS.

* * *

Mr. Quiet Observer—I read the letter in The Gazette from three Waynesburg girls giving their view on the boys of Waynesburg. All I have to say is that for a town the size of Waynesburg we have very nice young gentlemen. Of course there are young men that are not gentlemen, and there are girls that are not ladies.

I find through my own experience that if a girl is a lady she will find her acquaintances among gentlemen. But when a girl walks up and down a business street all evening, passing crowds of loafers, she can't expect much courtesy.

I am not defending the loafers, tobacco spitters or gossips, for they are not gentlemen and not fit for any young lady to know let alone marry.

As for a boy not tipping his hat, nearly all boys do. If girls did not gad the street so much they wouldn't hear offensive remarks.

SOUVENIR HUNTERS STRIP PRINCE'S SHIP

Captain Kerr of Flagship Drake Tells of a Few Things the Visitors Took Away.

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—According to Capt. Mark Kerr of H. M. S. Drake, souvenir collectors have been as busy as bees on board that vessel during its stay here. The captain reports a large number of things missing. "I must say you people take the cake as souvenir hunters," said Capt. Kerr, smiling. "In all the various ports we have called at in the course of our present tour we've never missed so many things from this ship as has been the case during our pleasant stay here. You have simply swooped down on us like a hawk on its prey. I should say that between 40,000 and 50,000 people here have paid us a social call, and a goodly percentage have bid us au revoir with property belonging to the ship sticking to them.

"To give a list of the things appropriated would about fill a page of your paper. They include one rifle, eight rifle bayonets with their leather sheaths, four helmets of the Royal Marines, about 20 sailor's caps, three danger signal lanterns, one petty officer's sword, one D. S. O. medal, a couple of small barometers, a lot of tools, two or three-score electric bulbs, several belts belonging to the Royal marines, numerous flags, and eating utensils by the dozen. Coils of rope have been cut indiscriminately and canvas sails have also been cut up in many places, and the pieces carried off.

"I can't recall offhand half the things taken. One visitor even took away a loaf of bread the other day. He asked permission to take it, however. He said he didn't want it to eat at all, but as a souvenir only."

Opera Goers Have the Call.

New traffic regulations for the theater district were issued today by Commissioner McAdoo, with special reference to the Metropolitan opera house crowds. Operagoers may drive to the Broadway entrance on arriving, but at the close of the performance private carriages will be allowed only at the Thirty-ninth and Fortieth street entrances, and they will not be permitted to cross Broadway north of Thirty-eighth street or south of Forty-fifth street. Public hacks will be kept in line by the police, and will be released only in their proper order on call.

Hold Revival Services in Saloon.

Revival services took place tonight in Joseph Donohue's saloon in Main street, a resort well known in Paterson, N. J. The Rev. and Mrs. William Asher, members of the Rev. Dr. Wilbur Capman's band of singing revivalists from the west, and who are known as the "slum revivalists," conducted the services. Donohue agreed that during the services no drinks would be sold. The revivalists carry with them a folding organ. Saloon meetings will follow day and night for the next two weeks in conjunction with the services at the churches.

Fat Job for John Jacob Astor.

Col. John Jacob Astor, who was down as a trial juror in trial term, part 5 of the supreme court, Justice Dugro presiding, did not answer to his name when the roll was called by Gen. O'Beirne, clerk of the court, today. Gen. O'Beirne explained the reason for Col. Astor's absence by saying that the jury notice had been served by mail and not by personal service and that probably the multi-millionaire had not as yet received it. When Col. Astor does answer the call he will receive $2 a day every day he answers the roll call and 25 cents for every case that he serves on as a juror.

Up Goes Price of Coal.

An advance of 10 to 15 cents a ton in all the small sizes was announced today by the anthracite coal roads and operators. The soft coal combine has also advanced its product 25 to 50 cents a ton in the sizes suitable for factory use. The rise in the price of the small sizes of hard coal is in addition to the regular advance under the sliding scale, which went into effect June 1, 1905. Under that scale coal has gone up 10 cents a ton a month until it is 50 cents a ton higher for standard sizes now than on the first of June.

To Commemorate Anniversary.

In commemoration of the 250th anniversary of the settlement of the Jews in America and of the foundation of the congregation Shearith Israel in the city of New York—the first Jewish synagogue in this country—a fair will be held by this representative and oldest congregation at the synagogue building, commencing Tuesday evening, November 28, and continuing on the afternoon and evening of each subsequent day, including November 30. The specific object of the fair will be to raise a large sum of money for the poor.

Municipal Ownership's Cost.

Deckhands employed by the Staten Island ferries have sent a petition to Dock Commissioner Featherson asking for an increase in pay. Since the new ferry was inaugurated wages of the firemen have been increased from $75 to $90, and the pay of the water tenders from $80 to $100. The deckhands are paid $60 a month by the city, 5 more than they received from the Staten Island Ferry Company.

Still Betting on Election.

Election betting money is still obtainable, although no bets have been closed in the Broad street curb market for several days. W. Bagley today offered to bet $10,000 at 4 to 1 that the returns the votes will show McClellan elected, and $5,000 at 1 to 4 that it will show Hearst elected.

WORST HATED MAN IN RUSSIAN EMPIRE

Gen. Trepoff's Love of Power. His Pride, His Nicknames and Hold on the Czar.

Gen. Trepoff need not have signed the proclamation from which these words are taken: "And the military have been directed to fire ball cartridges if the crowds offer resistance. No blank cartridges will be used." They are as characteristic of the man as is the nervous twitch of one eyelid that has earned for him the nickname "Winks." Russia knows him too well. Once he was laughed at. "He owes his advancement to the fact that he is the illegitimate son of some high personage," scoffed his enemies. He did not reply. Then tales were told of his pride. A decrepit old man had presumed to cross the street in front of his carriage, causing the driver to slacken speed for a moment.

"An insult to me," said Gen. Trepoff. "Arrest the man!"

Instantly hands were laid on the presumptuous citizen who had not scuttled out of the way with due respect. The scene closed at the police station, when the old man, who had been vigorously abused by the general, proved himself to be a prince, an ex-governor-general of an important province, a state councilor, aide-de-camp to the emperor, etc. Gen. Trepoff apologized. Russia laughed. More stories were told. He had insulted an Englishman of high rank. Once more his pride had been humbled by a reprimand from the emperor. And again the people he scorned rubbed their hands and gloated over his discomfiture.

Scorn Turned to Hate.

Then the laughter ceased. Scorn turned to hate. They tried to kill him. Three attempts were made in a single week. A woman placed the muzzle of a pistol against his breast and pulled the trigger. The pistol missed fire. A man armed with a dagger forced his way toward him, swearing that he would stab the man who had now earned the name of "Iron Heart." He failed. Two days later a young man sprang upon the steps of his carriage and lunged at him with a knife. The blow was ill-aimed. The knife wounded a policeman. Trepoff was unharmed. Three attempts upon his life in one week would be enough to shake the nerves of most men, but Gen. Trepoff had been accustomed to would-be assassins. Perhaps, like some of his enemies, he was beginning to believe that he was impervious alike to steel, powder and dynamite. Certainly it seemed that bullets could not touch him. One man fired three revolver shots at short range. One passed through the general's overcoat—but they all missed. Bullets always had missed this man.

Yet, in spite of his assumed contempt, he must often have thought of his danger, for when it was announced that he was to take command of a brigade in Manchuria he is reported to have said: "Since I must be shot at, I prefer to be a target for professional Japanese soldiers than for dirty amateurs."

Personal Appearance.

Tall, muscular, deep-chested, a face in which the most prominent features are the cold, slate-colored eyes, he is a man who gives one the impression of enormous force, both physical and mental. Dominated by a love of power, enjoying the signs of fear he arouses, he seems one in whom all the warmer traits have been frozen. When only a lieutenant he sabred his orderly for some trifling breach of etiquette. He has boasted, it is said, of having shot five men with a revolver. At Moscow he warned the crowds, as he has just warned them at St. Petersburg. Then they did not believe him. True to his threat, the soldiers fired. How many citizens were slain will never be known, but streets and squares were piled battlefields until order reigned again.

Gen. Trepoff was not loved the more, but he was respected. Suspecting everybody, trusting only himself, he has more than once come to grief, as all who live only to make enemies.

Once the brilliant idea occurred to him to organize secret societies and strikes on his own account, by way of antidote to the societies already in existence in Moscow. Accordingly a workman's union was formed under the auspices of police spies. One sequel to that move has been told often. Another has escaped notice.

Did His Own Spying.

Indisposed to trust even his own most astute agents, Gen. Trepoff, skillfully disguised, must needs venture among the sham conspirators himself. He had forgotten one of his own peculiarities—that curious twitch of the eyelid which has earned for him the Russian equivalent for the nickname "Winks," and of course he was at once recognized. Playing his part as conspirator with enthusiastic earnestness, he counselled the workmen, sham and real, to adopt extreme measures, and two of his own men, resenting his distrust of their own conduct of the proceedings, contrived to get him to repeat his fatal admonitions in the presence of the manager of one of the biggest Moscow factories. The manager and his foreman, pretending to fall in with the disguised Trepoff's proposals, lured him away from the others and then gave him the soundest thrashing a grown man ever had.

Enough has been said to give a picture of the man in whose hands the fate of St. Petersburg lies. He is hated, hated, hated! The czar summed him up in a few words:

"He is one of the few men I can rely on."—London Daily Mail.

Newspaper Warrior Home.

Lieut. Franklin R. Kenney of the United States army has come back home. At the Pittsburgh Press club last night he was still brushing off the dust of the alfalfa. Five years ago he came back from the Philippines as a corporal in the Tenth regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers. In those days he was known as one of Maj. Bell's famous scouting party, and his old friends expected him to exhibit the scalp of Aguinaldo's brother-in-law. Nevertheless they remembered when he joined the bunch of "rookies" Col. James E. Barnett took away to the Philippines, and it seemed but a short time until he returned with two stripes upon his arm.

But the soldier in those days wanted to be a doctor. He went to the West Penn medical clinics in the winter and did newspaper work in the summer. He showed so much facility that he covered the McKees Rocks route for the Chronicle Telegraph. (To the person who is a novice in the newspaper trade it might be said that it takes a real star to work the Rocks.) Anyhow Kenney made good with a "scoop" six days a week. Just when he had proved to the world that no newspaperman could eclipse him, the secretary of war advertised that he wanted more officers. He said that he preferred bright young men who had seen service in the Philippines.

The proposition was too much for Kenney.

"Me for the army," he said, and two or three days later the secretary of war was reading his application and inside a fortnight Kenney was taking his examination at Governor's island down in New York harbor. Of course he passed and it wasn't long until he wiped the tears away, said farewell to his newspaper associates and joined the heavy artillery. Subsequently he was assigned to the recruiting service and has spent two long years in Indian territory. Can he sing "Tammany?" The world ought to hear him. But in a day or two he will say good bye to Pittsburgh again and will go to Baltimore.

Visiting Old Friends.

T. V. Powderly, commissioner of immigration during the administration of President McKinley, was at the Fort Pitt hotel last evening. Mr. Powderly was formerly grand master workman of the Knights of Labor and stopped in the city yesterday to shake hands with his numerous friends who are delegates to the meeting of the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Powderly said last evening: "As I sat in the convention this afternoon and looked into the faces of workmen from all parts of the United States I thought that if the employers of those people could be there and see the earnestness with which those men engage in their work, there would be no further trouble about the labor question. A few years ago it was claimed that the workmen lacked intelligence and therefore were incompetent to hold positions of trust, but I am sure that a more intelligent looking body of men than those at the convention here could not be found. Pittsburgh is certainly a great place. Of course, it is dirty, but just think—all of it pay dirt." The ex-commissioner will visit the convention again today, as he says, to shake hands with the friends he missed yesterday.

He would not express an opinion as to the recent explosions in Washington county. The conference yesterday was the regular bi-monthly meeting.

STEAMFITTERS WIN THEIR FIGHT

TOO HASTY IN BOYCOTTS

For more than five hours yesterday the American Federation of Labor convention in Old City hall argued the points at issue between the plumbers and steamfitters. While the steamfitters did not get a charter, they won, as the convention by an overwhelming vote recommended that they be granted one. The battle was one against the opposition of such men as John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers, and has following, and the plumbers themselves. The battle began in the morning and was finished only a few minutes before adjournment in the evening.

A report of the organization committee favoring the granting of the charter was made at the morning session. Mitchell at once raised the point of order that the convention could not grant charters, as that was under the jurisdiction of the president and executive council. President Gompers reserved his decision until the afternoon session. Then he decided the point well taken. President Gompers decided that it was in the province of the convention to instruct its officers.

This gave Lee M. Hart of Chicago an opening, and he moved that the president and executive council be instructed to grant the steamfitters a charter. Mitchell stifled this by raising the point that it set aside the constitution, which provided for the granting of charters. This point was decided against the motion, and E. J. McCullin appealed from the decision of the chair. Gompers was sustained by a vote of 118 to 50. Charles Doid of Chicago, representing the Piano and Organ workers, made a motion that the convention recommend that the charter be granted. This precipitated the fight that lasted the balance of the afternoon.

Vote Favors the Charter.

The principal argument favoring the steamfitters was made by E. J. McCullin of the St. Louis Central Trades and Labor union. He cited from reports and history of other conventions the entire matter, and was not answered directly by the plumbers. A dozen speeches favoring the steamfitters were delivered. William J. Spencer and John R. Alpine of the plumbers fought hard, but the sentiment of the convention was against them. John Mangan of the steamfitters was granted the right to address the convention in behalf of his organization. The main argument of the plumbers was that the trade of lead pipe fitting is passing away, and that they are becoming more and more workers with iron pipe. Delegate Alpine told of the change of conditions in their trade by illustrating the Farmers bank building, saying:

"In one of the most magnificent office buildings in America there are not over four or five wipe joints. Iron and bronze pipe is so displacing lead pipe in plumbing that we should all be in one organization."

As there were no signs of the debate closing the previous question was moved shortly before 5 o'clock last evening. The vote was so close by voice that a roll call, the first of the convention, was demanded. It resulted, yeas 9,548, nays 9,89.

On the vote the United Mine Workers delegation split, T. L. Lewis and Patrick Dolan voting aye and Mitchell, Wilson, Ryan, Fahey and Dempsey voting no. The teamsters, headed by Con P. Shea, voted solidly for the motion. The carpenters split, Duffy, Macfarlane, Swartz, Huber and Yarnell voting "yes," and Grimes and Zaring voting "no."

Another jurisdiction fight was settled in the morning, when the car painters were ordered to join the Painters, Paperhangers and Decorators.

Frown on Hasty Boycotts.

Haste in declaring boycotts was frowned upon by the convention at the opening of the afternoon session. The boycott committee presented a report that firms or individuals should not be placed on the unfair list until after a thorough investigation, and that instead of engaging in a number of boycotts that one should be taken up and fought to a conclusion before another was started. This report was in line with an address by President Gompers during the morning, when he said that too hasty action was taken in boycotts. At the opening of the morning session E. A. Calvin of Ft. Worth, Tex., representing the Farmers' union, addressed the convention. The report of the committee on president's report caused considerable favorable discussion. Higher dues were favored.

Before adjournment last evening Owen R. Lovejoy of New York spoke on the child labor problem. Among the social and other affairs provided for the week is a reception for President Gompers by the Statwin club, Mt. Washington, tonight; a "chop suey stag social" at the Elks club Thursday night; a meeting of street car men in Arnfelds hall Thursday night, and a meeting in Old City hall tomorrow night under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Women's Union Label League.

The defeat of the plumbers in their fight against the steam fitters caused federation politics to sizzle last night. William J. Spencer, president of the plumbers, is now seventh vice president of the federation, but will be opposed for re-election. For fifth vice president, to succeed Thomas I. Kidd, it is practically agreed that W. D. Huber of the Carpenters will be chosen. This leaves W. D. Mahon of the street car men to contest for Spencer's seat. Huber voted for the steamfitters yesterday, but Mahon was not present. The other two delegates representing his union voted for the fitters. Spencer has always had the support of the officers and executive council, but they will have a hard fight to save him with Mahon in the field.

Banquet on Friday.

The banquet to the delegates will be held Friday night, probably at the Colonial hotel. The question of union or non-union waiters enters into the selection of a place, but as there are few union men in the hotels it was agreed that any hired help should be union men.

Terrance V. Powderly, formerly grand master workman of the Knights of Labor and former commissioner of immigration, who was in the city yesterday, was present during the sessions of the convention, but was not introduced to the delegates.

"Organized Labor Viewed by Its Opponents and Advocates," was the subject of an address by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, before the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce last evening. The principal questions upon which Mr. Gompers dwelt were the eight-hour-day and the walking delegate. He stated that it had been proved that the eight-hour-day for the laborer was the most scientific and the most economical. That in an eight-hour day shifts could be doubled or trippled, and it had been shown that the product of a man working eight hours a day was better and the cost cheaper than that of the man who was working 10 or 12 hours a day.

SOPHIE GERADE IS DEAD.

Wife of Child Murderer Passes Away at Claremont.

Mrs. Sophie Gerade, an inmate of the insane ward of the Allegheny city poor farm, died yesterday. She has been confined at Claremont since the murder of her daughter in 1899. The child was killed by Frank Gerade, her second husband, who had a hatred for the child of her first marriage. The couple lived in Shady avenue, Allegheny, and on March 15, 1899, the husband arose from bed and taking the little girl by the ankles dashed her head against a heavy bed post. Gerade served 12 years in Riverside for the crime, and has lived in Allegheny since his release in 1901. The crime unbalanced the wife's mind. Gerade yesterday informed Charities Dispector Charles Young that he would take charge of the woman's remains.

FINANCE COMMITTEE MAY MEET THURSDAY

Bole Will See Bigelow Tomorrow—Director Says Levy Will be 13 Mills.

"The tax levy for next year will not be higher than it is this year," said Director Bigelow yesterday.

"Director, how are you going to make the money for water extensions—in the regular appropriations or by a bond issue?"

"I have not decided. I will have to take that up," replied the director. Mr. Bigelow controls absolutely the finance committee which will report the appropriation and tax levy ordinances, and these bills will not be submitted to councils until they have been approved by him.

Chairman Bole of the finance committee said yesterday that he would visit city hall tomorrow and might call a special meeting of the finance committee for Thursday afternoon. Mr. Bole said a large appropriation would be made for water extension but he did not explain how an extra appropriation of $800,000 or more could be made and the tax levy kept down to 13 mills.

Mr. Bigelow was asked yesterday who the chairman of the sub-committee on appropriations would be. "That is for the finance committee to say," and he laughed as if he thought this answer a good joke. When the chairman and members of the sub-committee to draft the appropriation bills are chosen they will be members who are picked by Mr. Bigelow.

URGE NEED OF BALLOT REFORM UPON GOVERNOR

Philadelphians Ask Mr. Pennypacker to Issue Supplemental Proclamation.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—The need of a new ballot system in Pennsylvania was urged upon Gov. Pennypacker by a committee of representative men from Philadelphia, who waited upon him this afternoon to ask that he issue a supplemental proclamation for the coming extra session of the legislature so as to enable the reconvened body to deal with this question.

The delegation was composed of J. Hampton Moore, representing the regular Republican organization; Alexander Simpson, Jr., and Francis Fisher Kane, speaking for the Democrats, and Thomas Raeburn White, representing the City party.

The governor showed great interest in the argument of the gentlemen, who spoke in turn, but made no promise that he would accede to their request. The opinion among his official associates is that he will make no change in his original program for the extra session, allowing ballot reform and the other reforms which have been suggested, to go over until the regular session of 1907. The committee said that the results of the recent election indicated a widespread sentiment for ballot reform.

CLOSE CALL FOR THREE.

William Hartman and Family Narrowly Escape Suffocation During Fire.

Three persons had narrow escapes from suffocation during a fire on Mt. Washington early this morning. The fire was in a building at 19 Boggs avenue, the second story of which is occupied by William Hartman, his wife and a 12-year-old daughter.

Mr. Hartman was awakened by the smell of smoke, and with difficulty aroused his wife and daughter, as all were partly stupefied. The building is a two-story frame, the lower portion being occupied by Thomas E. Smith as a confectionery shop.

The origin of the fire is unknown as the store portion is unoccupied at night. The fire started in the outer wall of the building, and had gained considerable headway before the alarm was sent in. Prompt work on the part of the firemen prevented the complete loss of the building which was damaged to the extent of $1,000. The building is owned by Adam Stohn.

Torch Caused Mine Explosion.

MONONGAHELA, PA., Nov. 20.—The coroner's jury at Bentleyville today found that the gas explosion, which resulted in the death of Edward Farragher, Edward Hastie, G. B. Wagoner, John McCarley, J. Hoskins, Joseph Stokes and F. H. Newman at shaft No. 1 of the Braznell mine last Wednesday, was caused by two open torches sent down into the shaft by order of Hastie. The jury decided the act of sending the torches down was an error of judgment on the part of Farragher and Hastie.

He unwittingly stepped across the dividing line to the company's property and was arrested for trespassing. The company refused to prosecute.

ACCUSES PASTOR OF USING LIQUOR

Presbyterian Ministers Have a Warm Discussion on Temperance and Lie Is Passed.

APOLOGY QUIETS TROUBLE

As the result of a paper on temperance, read at the meeting of Presbyterian ministers in the First Presbyterian church, Sixth avenue, yesterday morning, one minister charged another with being addicted to the use of liquor. The charge was branded as false and later retracted, but several clergymen took occasion to give temperance a rude jolt.

The wrangle was evoked by Prof. Charles Scanlon, field secretary of the Presbyterian general assembly's permanent committee on temperance, who read a paper on that subject. He stated that a father, mother, two children and a young man were murdered in Newport News, Va., recently, and that the proprietor of a saloon was the cause. He charged that complaints were called to China because of the murder of missionaries, but that nothing was done in the case of the Virginia affair "except that the government took its part of the revenue for the liquor which caused the awful deed. Is it a greater insult to be killed by a Chinaman than by a saloonkeeper?"

The Rev. Drs. James H. Snowden, Jesse C. Bruce and Joseph T. Gibson assailed the paper, declaring that the case was misrepresented, and that the association should not go on record as indorsing the statement.

"No cause is ever helped by exaggeration, and no cause has suffered more from exaggeration than that of temperance," declared Dr. Gibson.

The Rev. W. L. McClure of Jeannette opposed Dr. Gibson's statement, concluding with the charge that Dr. Gibson is himself addicted to the use of liquor. Dr. Gibson forcibly declared the charge to be a falsehood. Hot discussion followed, with several speakers attempting to be heard at the same time. When order was partially restored the Rev. Mr. McClure apologized, declaring that he meant his charge only as a joke.

The United Presbyterian clergymen were addressed by the Rev. Dr. J. T. McCrory on "Individual and Social Salvation." He reviewed social evils and charged that men are resorting to anything to gain wealth. He accused legislatures and the United States senate as being purchasable and took a blow at the liquor traffic. He also declared that capitalists who are getting 25, 40 and 100 per cent on their money are swindling someone, and predicted that "during the next quarter of a century there will be a social revolution. Socialism is coming."

Baptist ministers devoted their meeting to devotional exercises, while the Methodist Protestant pastors discussed "Justification by Faith." Methodist Episcopal preachers heard a paper on "The Modern Sermon," read by the Rev. C. F. English, and Lutheran ministers were addressed by the Rev. J. H. Keller on "The Douay Bible."

NIGHT SCHOOL FORMALLY OPENS

Carnegie Technical Evening Courses Begin With 338 Students in Three Divisions.

SCHOOL COLORS ARE HERE

Three hundred and thirty-seven ambitious young men out of an eligible list of 358 presented themselves in the assembly rooms of the Carnegie Technical schools last night to enter upon the night courses of the institution. One man was absent, but in his stead came two who were not on the eligible list. Unfortunately they could not be received.

The assembly room was inadequate to properly accommodate the assemblage, and many were compelled to stand. An address of welcome was delivered by Director Hamerschlag, while Prof. John A. Brashear and W. N. Frew spoke on behalf of the board of trustees. Mr. Hamerschlag, in welcoming the initial class, said in part:

"It is fine to welcome you here tonight as students of the Carnegie Technical school. You are to have an opportunity which is sought for and desired by many young men throughout this broad land, but, before describing to you what constitutes an education such as is proposed to give you it is wise for you to stop a moment and silently give your thanks to the founder of this school, Andrew Carnegie. You are to be the recipient of one of the most splendid opportunities which modern civilization has vouchsafed to aspiring youth in any city in the land, a night school operated on equally efficient lines with the day school. The time which you are to spend here is filled with golden hours and the education which we offer must fall on fertile soil if it is to be productive.

"The faculty of the Carnegie Technical schools propose offering a system of instruction which you need in your life work, and it is for you to make the most of this instruction. As I look over the eager, bright faces of the young men gathered here tonight I realize that no school discipline of the old-fashioned kind will be necessary for the conduct of the classes; the school will give you that for which it is created; you must be here to receive it; your failure to do so will mean your loss and not the school's."

Subdivided Into Classes.

The 338 students are subdivided into three classes, 144 taking the special course, 144 the regular course and 50 the architectural course. The special course consists of the studies of arithmetic, algebra, physics, English and mechanical drawing, while the regular course includes these studies and also geometry, chemistry and shop work. Both classes have been divided into six sections, each section taking up two subjects a night, alternately.

Mr. S. Dowiatt of Edgewood Park was yesterday appointed assistant night instructor of drawing. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois, department of mechanical engineering, class of 1900. He taught for a time in Lewis university, Chicago, and has had practical experience as a mechanical draughtsman.

The students yesterday received the official copy of school colors from Glasgow, Scotland, in the form of a strip of "Carnegie Tartan Plaid" flannel. It has a background of green and dark blue squares, with bright red and yellow lighting for supremacy on the foreground in lineal squares. The institution has decided to adopt this foreign pattern as the official school colors, but will patronize home industry in having the copy worked out into flags and streamers.

Two hockey teams were formally organized yesterday and the use of Duquesne Garden for practice was secured for several hours each day. One of the striking announcements on the bulletin boards last night made the request that "We need yells." Any fellow having a yell will please turn it in to the chairman of the sporting committee or Prof. Woris."

SURGICAL STAFF BUSY WITH AMPUTATIONS

Accidents Starts Run of Operations at Allegheny General Hospital.

The surgical staff of the Allegheny General hospital, in less than three hours last night, performed five amputations. Two of the general operating rooms were in service at one time, and there was a general hustling among nurses and orderlies.

Louis Fay, aged 40, a resident of Etna, was brought to the hospital shortly after 6 o'clock, with both arms so badly crushed they had to be amputated immediately. He was crushed in a roller at the Spang-Chalfant Company mill at Etna.

Harry Day, aged 8, who lives at Main and Chestnut streets, Allegheny, was run over by a car near the end of the Ninth street bridge about 8 o'clock, and his left leg had to be amputated above the knee.

Joseph Takula, aged 40, an Italian laborer in the employ of the Columbia Contracting Company, had his left foot so badly mangled amputation was necessary.

Henry Ellicher, a resident of New Homestead, was struck by a Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston train at the West street crossing in Homestead at 8 o'clock. He was put on the train and brought to the city. It was necessary to take the right arm off at the shoulder.

With the exception of Takuia the patients were in a very serious condition late last night from shock and loss of blood.

500,000 Babies Are Sacrificed.

State Official Declares Adulterated Foods an Appalling Menace to the Lives of American Children.

At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the National association of State Dairy and Food Departments, the secretary of a state board made the assertion, and produced figures to prove it, that the death of nearly half a million little children in America last year was due to poisons administered in impure foods.

Think of this! Nearly half a million children sacrificed to the murderous greed of food adulterators! It behooves us all to have a care in selecting the food that comes into our homes. The health and lives of our children and our own health are at stake.

Welcome, indeed, is a food that is known to be pure and wholesome, rich in nutrition and good to eat—so good that no other food can take its place. We refer to Malta-Vita, that delicious, crisp, whole-wheat food. Among all the cereal foods we believe we are warranted in saying that Malta-Vita is the only food that is simply and wholly pure grain product and nothing else, except a little salt. It is free from any foreign sweetening agent or other adulterant, and is made in absolute cleanliness.

A perfect breakfast is impossible without Malta-Vita, and it's just as good three times a day. Containing every food element of the best white wheat and pure barley malt extract, it is intensely vitalizing and easily digested.

Let your children have all the Malta-Vita they want and you need not fear for their health. Try some yourself with cream or fruit. You never tasted anything quite so good.

Malta-Vita, every flake baked to a crisp and always ready to eat, is sold by all grocers. Now 10 cents.

GWINNER SEEKS HELP OF POLICE

SPECIAL OFFICERS ON GUARD

Fredrick Gwinner, Sr., president of the Enterprise National bank of Allegheny, yesterday afternoon called at the Allegheny central police station and asked that police protection be given his residence in California avenue. In a talk with Acting Superintendent John Glenn the aged financier told of the troubles he has been subjected to since the recent publication of a story to the effect that he was buying up at face value all the accounts of his friends who were depositors in the wrecked bank.

"That story has no foundation," said Mr. Gwinner, "and it has made life almost unbearable about our house. Every night my residence is beseiged by scores of persons who have money in the Enterprise bank. They are convinced that my wealth is unlimited and that just because I was president of the bank I have taken upon myself the responsibility of taking all assignments that are offered. That is not true. There are several of my own employes who placed their savings in that bank at my solicitation and on my assurance that the bank was sound. By doing this they showed their confidence in me, and in these cases I have reimbursed them for their entire accounts.

"Ever since the bank closed I have had a watchman at my front gate but lately he has been unable to handle the crowds that seek personal communication with me. From 6 o'clock until after midnight men and women swarm into my grounds and on my porch. Most of them bring bank books with them, and ask to see me. When they are refused they seem angry. Many of the men who come never had anything in the Enterprise bank and evidently come for the purpose of trying to defraud me. Some of them come up from the Woods Run district in an intoxicated state after the saloons are closed. The racket they make disturbs everyone in our house. I want two special policemen stationed on my grounds tonight and they are to remain there until I have no further need of their services. And I would like to have it understood that I am not assuming the responsibility for the collapse of the bank by taking up other people's claims against it."

Two special policemen were sent to the Gwinner residence last night with orders to remain from 7 o'clock until 11 each evening.

In talking of affairs at the bank Mr. Gwinner said neither he nor any of the other directors were made familiar with the progress of the examination, more than outsiders. He professed utter ignorance of what was going on and said he knew nothing more than has been printed in the newspapers. He says he has not the slightest knowledge of any contemplated suits, either of a civil or criminal nature, against anyone.

Attorney Thomas M. Marshall, who is counsel for State Treasurer Mathues, failed to file an answer yesterday to the petition of the directors of the Enterprise bank who obtained a rule requiring him to show why judgement against the directors should not be opened and they allowed to enter a defense. The delay in sending some papers from Harrisburg, Mr. Marshall says, prevented him from filing the answer. He obtained an order in Common Pleas Court No. 2 striking off the judgement entered against John Selling, formerly a director of the bank, but now deceased. The order of the court does not prejudice the right of the state to sue the Selling estate.

Paying Teller Thomas W. Harvey, of the Enterprise, has transferred some stocks to Receiver Cunningham to secure the later against a loss of $3,500 negotiated by Harvey last July. The loan was made through Cashier T. Lee Clark.

ZEMSTVO IS DIVIDED ON SUPPORT OF WITTE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

MOSCOW, Nov. 20.—The zemstvo congress devoted two long sessions today to the discussion of the question of the attitude it should adopt toward the new government, and late tonight adjourned without coming to a decision.

The debate indicated quite clearly, however, the existence of two apparently irreconcilable parties, as well as the lines on which the division ultimately will be made, though the relative strength of the party was not shown.

A score of orators participated in the debate and they were about evenly divided between the advocates of the immediate convocation of a constituent assembly and those who are urging co-operation with the new government so as to save the country from anarchy if not a complete revolution. No set resolution was proposed, but the discussion took the widest range.

BIG LAKE TONNAGES.

Pittsburgh Coal Ships Over 3,000,000 This Year and Ore Is About 35,000,000.

It was stated yesterday that by the time of the close of navigation, fixed for December 5, the Pittsburgh Coal Company will have shipped up the lakes between 2,900,000 and 3,500,000 tons of coal. The reduction in the volume of the company's lake shipments is to be computed on the basis of an entirely different arrangement in the marketing of a large part of the product. The company, previous to this year, has delivered a big portion of the lake coal to other shippers. This year it has had entire charge of its lake shipments and is the gainer thereby.

The figures given out by experts at present on the lake ore tonnage are computed carefully on the basis of what has already been done and the possibilities for the remaining two weeks of navigation. It is estimated that the ore tonnage will be close to 35,000,000, which is overwhelmingly a new high record.

ENGINEERS DIE IN WRECK.

Erie Atlantic Express Goes Into a Ditch—One Victim from Meadville.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 20.—The eastbound Atlantic express on the Erie railroad, was wrecked at Falconer, three miles east of here tonight. The passengers escaped with a severe shaking up. Two trainmen were killed. They were Charles Kreiger of Salamanca and William S. See of Meadville, Pa.

The train was about two hours late when it left Jamestown, and was being drawn by two engines in charge of Engineers Kreiger and See. At Falconer both engines and four coaches left the tracks. The engines tipped over, burying the engineers.

MAY BE FOUL PLAY.

Policeman Finds Unconscious Man With Three Wounds on Head.

George Weidler, aged 42, of 1434 Howard street, Allegheny, was found lying in Hogans alley, between East and Madison avenues, this morning at 2:30 o'clock, with three wounds in the back of his head. Policeman Robertson heard the man groaning and investigating, found him in a semi-conscious condition. He had him removed to the Allegheny General hospital, where he was found to be suffering from three wounds on the back of his head.

The injuries are of such a nature as would lead the police to believe that Weidler was the victim of foul play, as all are some distance apart and have the appearance of having been made with an iron bar. One wound is of a very dangerous nature and the physicians at a late hour had not decided whether the skull is fractured or not.

SEQUEL TO THE HARWICK FIRE

Cunningham on Trial Charged With Manslaughter in Connection With That Disaster.

IS "YELLOW ROW" DOOMED?

As a sequel to one of the most disastrous mine horrors in the history of Pennsylvania's coal industry, Mine Inspector F. W. Cunningham was placed on trial in criminal court yesterday before Judge Brown, charged with involuntary manslaughter, the case growing out of the Harwick explosion of fire damp January 25, 1904, in which 178 people lost their lives. Judge R. S. Umbel of Fayette county sat with Judges Brown and Macfarlane during the selection of the jury. The commonwealth is represented by William D. Grimes, while Robert B. Petty and William J. Brennen represent the defendant.

Former Coroner Jesse M. Mcgeary testified as to the accident and the inquest and identified papers and records in the case. Ross Mangerve, a relative of Rosario Matarese, one of the miners who lost his life and for whose death Inspector Cunningham is specifically charged in the indictment, testified as to the death of Matterese.

George W. Sheetz, manager of the Harwick mine, identified the records of the fire boss, which were made daily, showing the condition of the mine.

Bigley's Damaging Testimony.

James Bigley, a miner who was sick at home on the day of the explosion, testified he had been employed at the mine for three years and that it was full of dust and gas. He said there was over a foot of coal dust in the passage ways. He stated that very little sprinkling was done and that it was generally done at night. Bigley explained the nature of a "blow out" shot. He said the compressed air was used to clear out a chamber when a "shot" was attempted. Bigley said the miners were more afraid of the dust than of the gas, and that on one occasion when a "shot" was about to be fired, Fire Boss Gordon warned him away and remarked about the dangerous character of the dust. Bigley said the reason he did not report the condition of the mine to the proper authorities was because he was afraid of being discharged.

Manager Sheetz, on being recalled, said the mine was not known as a dusty mine and that it was sprinkled as often as required. He stated that the mine was ventilated by fans, but that there was no pressure gauge on the fans as required under the mining law. He said that Cunningham knew of this. Sheetz stated that Cunningham had written him a letter in regard to two open lights at the bottom of the mine in which he advised that they be discontinued. Sheetz said he did not consider the lights dangerous. He said there was no gas in large quantities in the mine and that he did not know what exploded.

The case will be continued today.

The action brought by Director Harry Moore to condemn and raze "Yellow Row" was on trial yesterday. It required two years to serve the 30 original heirs of John Nicholson, as they live in all parts of the country. The city called Chief Building Inspector S. A. Dies and some of his subordinates to prove that the buildings were unsafe; Dr. L. Goldsmith, a former tenement house inspector, to show that they were not fit for human habitation, and several police officials, to show the low type of most of the people who lived in the row, and who were ordered to leave by Director Moore.

The defense called John W. Nicholson, Jr., the only heir present, and some others to refute this testimony. Nicholson said he was 73 years old; that the buildings were older than he, and that they were erected by his father's uncle.

Old Hotel Sale in Litigation.

John H. McMasters and others filed a petition in No. 1 court, again beginning an action to have a trust declared in the estate of Benjamin F. Jones, which action in orphans' court was recently dismissed for want of jurisdiction. McMasters claims Jones held in trust for him a sum of over $50,000, resulting from the sale of the old Eagle Hotel, now the Seventh Avenue, and for which, McMasters says, Jones made no provision in his will. The executors, he claims, refused to carry out the trust which he says exists. A citation was awarded, returnable December 2.

A most unusual damage suit is that of William A. Schen, a fireman residing in New York, who sues the Pennsylvania Railroad company to the United States court for $25,000 damages. Witnesses testified that Jacob Faith, the engineer of the train on which Schen received his injuries, was known as a reckless engineer, ran past signals, and, although in four weeks had never been censured or made to "do time," Schen was hurt in a wreck where it was alleged Faith had refused to stop for a red light. One witness said Faith had been censured.

Sixteen of the 40 women on the trial list against whom the charge is keeping disorderly houses in Allegheny appeared in criminal court yesterday and entered pleas of nolo contendre. Each was indicted for keeping a disorderly house and selling liquor without a license. Before the pleas were accepted Assistant District Attorney John S. Robb, Jr., explained that the plea of nolo contendre had the same force and effect as a plea of guilty or a verdict of guilty if the defendants were to stand trial and be convicted, and that the court could impose the same sentence in any case. This statement had a very perceptible effect on the women, but they signed the plea. One of the defendants, Kizie Kerr, was so greatly affected that she had to be led from the court room.

Emma C. Sherrill has answered the divorce proceedings of Frank E. Sherrill and filed a cross bill asking a decree. She denies his charges of cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities and makes counter charges, in which she accuses her husband of infidelity and names Emma L. Armstroff as corespondent. She says he introduced her into their home and by his familiarity with her in the presence of the respondent and his endearing terms of address to her and comparisons with the respondent, offered such indignities to her that she was compelled to leave him February 11, 1904. She asks the court to award her the custody of their child and alimony.

Theodore Cappell, receiver of the Schilling Bros. Co., entered suits against Leon Sadowski for $1,400; E. T. Schilling, for $870; Frank O. Schilling, for $321.67, and W. H. Thompson, for $298.23. Cappell alleges these amounts were paid the defendants, who are stockholders, by P. C. Schilling, president of the company, as dividends when he knew the concern was not earning them, and without authority of the board of directors or stockholders.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ellis secured a verdict of $8,700 against the Pennsylvania railroad for the death of her husband.

In the United States Court.

In the United States court, Reddick Otto lost his suit to recover on a policy issued by the German-American Fire Insurance company. Nicola Bros. Co. got a verdict of $2,173.42 against the Speer Box & Lumber company for lumber sold. The Elevator Construction company was given $7,561.80 in its suit against the Standard Plunger Elevator company of Worcester, Mass.

Suit was filed by James Cousins and his wife of Gallipolis, O., against Capt. John Klein of Pittsburgh, asking $10,000 damages for the death of James A. Cousins, aged 19 years, son of the plaintiffs, who was drowned by falling through a guard rail on the steamer Beauty.

A petition in bankruptcy was filed by Robert F. Mayer, an art dealer, of Pittsburgh. He gives his assets as $250 and his liabilities as $16,720.42.

Executions issued: Independent Brewing company vs. Joseph Zydal, $1,500; Josephine Wurdeck vs. Wensel Pokorney, $2,272; William L. Jones vs. Jacob Koch & Co., $700.

POVERTY PARADE IN LONDON.

Unemployed Men March Through Streets, Denouncing Charity and Demanding Work.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—There was another "poverty parade" in the streets of London this afternoon. Some 5,000 to 6,000 unemployed men and a sprinkling of women marched along the Thames embankment to Hyde Park, where they listened to speeches and adopted resolutions condemning charity as a cure for lack of employment and demanding the summoning of parliament to initiate works of national utility.

Red flags were seen and banners bearing such devices as "Curse your charity, we want work," and "There is a limit to human endurance," indicated the temper of the processionists.

NEW YORK'S BIG HORSE SALE OPENS RATHER TAME

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Madison Square Garden with a miniature trotting track built in the arena, where society assembled to see the horse show last week, was today the scene of what promised to be the biggest auction sale of fine horses ever held in New York. Ten hundred and eighty-five trotters and pacers have been catalogued by the Fasig-Tipton company to be sold in the next ten days. Offerings today were not of very high class, as a rule, and prices were in keeping with the character of the animals sold. Consignments from J. C. McKinney of Titusville, Pa.; J. Howard Ford, Joseph E. Meyer and various owners and breeders made up the day's offerings. Twenty-three horses from Mr. McKinney's Terrace farm brought $2,305. Zombyro, one of the big winners in the grand circuit this year, was sold to E. T. Barnett of Akron, Ohio, for $1,200.

Among the other sales were: Zelma, bk. f., 2 years, by Beautiful, E. T. Barnett, Akron, O., $1,000; King Metaline, ch. h., 6 years, by Metallus, Henry Schreiber, Allegheny, Pa., $625; The Umpire, b. h., 5 years, by The Moor, George C. Wright, Charlestown, W. Va., $[illegible].

ASKS JUSTICE FOR FILIPINOS

Secretary Taft Tells Club Coastwise and Merchant Marine Acts Are Selfish.

GROWERS FEAR COMPETITION

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 20.—Secretary of War William H. Taft, guest of honor tonight at the anual banquet of the Commercial club, in responding to the toast, "The Philippines," said the Philippine Islands must be ours for more than a generation.

The occasion of the banquet was the anniversary of the signing of the John Jay commercial treaty.

Secretary Taft arrived from St. Louis early in the day in company with D. R. Francis, S. M. Fulton, president of the Chicago & Axton railway, and Corwin Spencer of St. Louis.

Secretary Taft was escorted from the railway station by 250 colored troopers of the Ninth cavalry to the Commercial club rooms, where a public reception was held. Immediately after the dinner the secretary of war left for Chicago.

Secretary Taft amid cheers, arose to speak. He said in part:

In all the legislation for which congress is responsible enacting the Philippines there are but two acts which can be criticised as having a selfish motive. One of which is the coastwise act, requiring that after July 1, 1906, all freight from the Philippine Islands and the reverse shall be carried in American bottoms. The other is the law by which there is imposed on products of the Philippine Islands coming into the United States 75 per cent of the Dingley rates.

The imposition of a tax upon Philippine products coming into the United States is for the purpose of excluding Philippine competition in certain products common to both the Philippines and the United States, to wit: sugar and tobacco.

This country is now using about 2,800,000 tons of sugar a year. Of this, about 1,000,000 tons are raised in Hawaii, Porto Rico and the United States proper. It is necessary, therefore, to import 1,800,000 tons. Of these at present 1,200,000 tons are imported from Cuba, and it pays 80 per cent of the Dingley rate of duty; 300,000 tons are imported from other foreign countries, and this sugar pays 100 per cent of the present Dingley rates. The amount of sugar raised in the Philippines for export in the year ending July 1, 1904, was 53,000 tons; for the year ending July 1, 1905, about 110,000 tons. As long as the United States demand creates the need for the importation of 1,800,000 tons of sugar paying the full Dingley rates, and 1,200,000 paying 80 per cent of the Dingley rates, it is impossible that the price of raw sugar in the markets of the United States can be affected by the introduction free of 160,000 tons, or of 200,000 tons, or of 300,000 tons, or of half a million tons from the Philippine Islands.

When we pass from sugar to tobacco we find no tobacco of any kind is now exported commercially from the Philippine Islands to the United States. No tobacco is raised in the Philippines except leaf adapted for wrappers or fillers or for smoking tobacco. Six hundred million pounds of tobacco is raised in the United States, of which 300,000,000 is exported. One hundred and sixty-four million pounds of leaf for cigars is consumed in the United States. Not more than 50,000,000 pounds of tobacco is produced in the Philippines, and of this but 19,000,000 pounds is exported.

The Philippine cigar, of course, cannot compete with the Cuban cigar, and is not in the same class any more than American-made Cuban cigars are in the same class as Cuban-made Cuban cigars. But what is very evident is that, by reason of a duty of $1.12½ a pound on the Philippine cigars and 6½ per cent ad valorem, it would be possible for American cigarmakers to make cigars out of Philippine tobacco at $17 a thousand of 17 pounds and undersell cigars of the same material made in Manila.

To the toast "Nothing the Matter With Kansas," Gov. Hoch of Kansas responded. D. R. Francis, former governor of Missouri, and John S. Wise of New York, formerly governor of Virginia, also spoke.

OLD LEADERS MAY DROP OUT OF ORGANIZATION

Durham, McNichol and Martin May All Retire from Their Philadelphia Leaderships.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—Israel W. Durham and State Senator James P. McNichol are to retire from the Republican city committee. Insurgent Commissioner David Martin also may retire. Of the "big leaders" who stood at the front of the organization in the recent campaign, David H. Lane alone is likely to seek reelection to the city committee. Even he is willing to go to the rear rather than make a fight for the place.

A conference having to do with the future of the remnants of the old "organization" was held today at Republican state headquarters. Among those present were Penrose, Lane and Martin. Hardly had the conference been adjourned than there was talk on the street of the formation of a "ward leaders league." In this connection there was mention of the Vares, Lane, Martin, McNichol, Hugh Black of the Thirty-sixth, and one or two others.

At today's conference Martin, it is said, strongly advised against any attempt to bar Republicans at the forthcoming primaries who voted the City party and Lincoln party ticket at the recent election.

FIRES CRIPPLED EMPLOYE.

Peter Geisler, Who Lost Leg While on Duty, Now Wants to Recover Allegheny Political Assessment.

Peter Geisler, who has been an employe of Allegheny City for almost 15 years, and who was discharged by Director McIlvain of the public works department last Saturday, is going to bring action against the Wyman administration to compel the return of $16 that was collected as a "voluntary" political assessment recently.

Geisler is well known in Allegheny and was always considered a conscientious worker. He is a resident of the Seventh ward and at the recent election worked for the Republican ticket. When he lost his leg at the light plant John R. Murphy, who was public safety director, said the man ought to be taken care of by the city as long as he was able to do anything.

CLAIMS WHISKY TAX OF $891,000

Dispute Between Government Officers and Overholt Distillery Owners.

WAREHOUSE TO BE REBUILT

Despite the claim of the Overholt company that the government will lose the internal revenue tax of $1.10 a gallon on the 810,000 gallons of whisky consumed by fire at the distillery at Broadford on Sunday, the local officers of the internal revenue bureau claim that the tax will be collected, the total of which amounts to $891,000. This statement was made yesterday by James L. Graham of the internal revenue collector's office in Pittsburgh, and by Deputy Collector Cavitt.

"The tax will have to be paid just as if the fire had never occurred," said Mr. Graham. "The government is fully protected by bonds for the entire amount. It does not matter what becomes of the goods after they are placed in the warehouse, although eight years are allowed the distillers in which to pay the tax. In some cases rebates are allowed on the tax if it can be shown that every precaution was taken to prevent fire and that the loss could not possibly have been prevented, but these cases are rare."

R. B. Mellon, one of the owners of the distillery, and Manager Charles W. Mauk, took a different view of the matter and claimed that when the circumstances are fully explained at Washington an entirely different view will be taken.

"We shall proceed at once to file a claim of abatement and whenever everything is before the officials at Washington they will undoubtedly remit the tax," said Manager Mauk. "It is natural for the government officers to hold that the tax is due, despite the fire, but when our claim reaches Washington the bill will be canceled. As to taking precautions to prevent the fire, we could not possibly have been more careful. The building was erected in strict accordance with the plans and specifications of the fire insurance underwriters. We are fully protected from loss on the warehouse and stock by insurance policies. Fully 90 per cent of the whisky stored in the warehouse was insured. Most of the whisky was owned by the trade, having been purchased from us long ago, but was allowed to remain in storage."

It was decided yesterday that the distillery should be shut down for 10 days on account of the loss of grain in the elevators near the burned warehouse. The wholesale value of the whisky destroyed is placed at 80 cents a gallon, which makes the total value $648,000. The building was valued at $75,000. The government tax, $1.10 a gallon, amounts to $891,000, making the total loss $1,614,000. The $4,000,000 estimate of the loss, given in the reports of yesterday, was based upon the retail instead of the wholesale value. The burned warehouse will be rebuilt at once.

PRESIDENT TAKES HAND IN NEW YORK POLITICS

Men Involved in Insurance Inquiry Under Discussion at White House.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Gov. Higgins of New York was a dinner guest tonight of President Roosevelt at the White House. Invited to meet and dine with the governor were Secretary Root and Postmaster General Cortelyou. The conference, admittedly important, began at the dinner table and continued until a late hour. The President invited Gov. Higgins to come to Washington to discuss with him the New York political situation. The evidence taken at the insurance inquiry has involved several politicians and that subject was discussed thoroughly at the conference.

Gov. Higgins made the following statement in response to inquiries:

"The subject of chairman of the Republican county committee of New York was discussed. The President made the following statement: 'I am very solicitous about the political conditions in New York.' He said that he was not for or against any particular man and does not propose to interfere in the selection of a chairman of the county committee, but is anxious that whoever is selected will be a man of the highest character and reputation. That is the only report, gentlemen, I am authorized to make in relation to the conference tonight."

Gov. Higgins declined to enter into any discussion affecting former Gov. Odell and his continued leadership of the party in New York.

KINSEY JOINS WEAVER.

City Solicitor Announces He Will Be Found Hereafter With Mayor's Forces.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Mayor Weaver scored a victory over the organization today when City Solicitor John L. Kinsey announced he was in complete sympathy with the mayor in his fight for civic betterment, and that hereafter the city's law department would be run on that basis. Mr. Kinsey also promised to co-operate in every way with the mayor's counsel in the prosecution of the civil suits to force the restoration of moneys alleged to have been illegally collected from the municipal treasury by political contractors.

The city solicitor took the first step in this direction by appointing William M. Meredith as one of his assistants to succeed Thomas D. Finletter, Jr., whose resignation was received today. Mr. Meredith has been one of the mayor's counsel under Judge Gordon since last June.

MISS BARRYMORE'S "SUNDAY" CHARMS

MANTELLI IN VAUDEVILLE

The drama prevails this week. In two houses actresses of widely different talents and methods may be seen in plays no more alike than is the Paris underworld like a Wyoming cattle ranch. Drama of interesting kind is also at the Empire, while a nondescript play is at the Bijou. Vaudeville springs a grand opera star on us, and musical comedy does a clever turn at the Alvin. Variety and burlesque tempt with special features, chief of which is, perhaps, a prize ring champion. Diverse tastes are thus provided for, how excellently or indifferently let the following reviews say:

Nixon—Ethel Barrymore as "Sunday."

One feels like extracting all the pleasant adjectives from his repertoire and sprinkling them through a review of Miss Ethel Barrymore's performance at the Nixon theater last evening. Theatrical entertainment that ripples smoothly along by the grace and charm of one of the womanliest young players of our native stage is assured the Nixon visitor. Miss Barrymore is her gracious self. The voice of queer cadences and long-drawn inflections is just as compelling. The tall, handsome girl, who by her queer little tricks of speech and manner, and her evident sincerity and naturalness, first began to make us attentive in "Captain Jenks," is still at the same tricks, only more sure now and more maturely the actress. Women admire Miss Barrymore for what she teaches them in the way of charm and naviete of manner. Men are always her champions because there is such frankness about her so much that seems unspoiled and unspoilable.

This is the woman and the actress as she really is, no matter what the play. In the present instance one could wish for Miss Barrymore's sake that the play counted for a little more. Not that it isn't interesting. There are moments when the audience last evening found itself on the verge of intense interest, but just about that time the dramatists strayed off into desert places and left you only Miss Barrymore to admire. With material for only a good, healty-sized one-act curtain raiser the authors of "Sunday" have spread it over four acts. Of course, there are bare places where the cloth doesn't make garment enough.

It is an obvious little play, too. "Sunday" is a child of English aristocracy, born at Silver Creek, United States of America. That's as definite as the dramatists would be about the place, but we are told it is some where in the wild west; to which safe haven "Sunday's" parents had drifted. Dying, the father left his little girl to the care of four "ranchers." There wanders her way, after she has grown up, a branch of her own English aristocracy who makes love to her, makes a base proposal and is promptly shot by one of the four guardians. In the next act "Sunday" has been discovered by her English family, and is at an "abbey." Here she meets the brother of the scapegrace who was shot on her account. He loves and so does "Sunday," but she stoutly refuses to marry him so long as the "dead brother lies between them." She returns to Silver Creek, is followed by her English lover, and things are rather abruptly brought to a happy finish.

It is an exceeding great pity that the Barrymore charm and grace of person and art should be employed on so trivial a play, even though it does interest in spots, in the love scene, and in the reading of her letter from "the boys," and later in her confession to her lover. Miss Barrymore acts with naturalness that is deeply tinged with power and true art. Her comedy is untechnical, as is her emotion, but both get next your heart and make you smile or grow serious as the demand may be. This young actress is so unformed, so lacking in the stiff directness that modern stage "puppetism" demands, but she is a sheer delight to the eye, and the ear, and the heart. By far too great a delight either to get married and go away from us, or be wasting her gifts in thinly fertilized pastures like this Raceward play, "Sunday."

Strength is further added the drama by the good acting of the principals. Bruce McRae is manly as the successful lover. The part is insignificant, but Mr. McRae gives it serious work. Joseph Brennan, Harrison Armstrong William Sampson and young John Barrymore are the western "ranchers." The last-named is the youngest acting member of the Barrymore family, and in one moment in the last act has his chance, when there is a flash of the family fire in his work. Olive Oliver is hidden away in the small part of a nun. Virginia Buchanan and Charles Harbury contribute a share of the good acting. The settings are handsome and adequate. CHARLES M. BREGG.

Belasco—Mrs. Carter as "Zaza."

After a week of the spectacular "Adrea," so remote in its human appeal, so foreign in its entire atmosphere, Mrs. Leslie Carter, at the Belasco theater last night, returned to the intensely human and supremely modern "Zaza." It is a play which has been widely condemned for its Frenchy flavor—even a lenient censor must admit that it is not a play for prudes—but it undoubtedly represents the highest triumph of Mrs. Carter's art. Her Zaza, while hardly a Parisian, is so perfectly rounded a portraiture; she runs the gamut of emotion so naturally; all the little touches that make great acting are so deftly given, that all her other creations are completely eclipsed. Zaza is her masterpiece, and one of the great acting roles of the American stage. Mrs. Carter's hoarseness has almost left her, and the large audience showed tumultuous approval of her work, giving her a dozen recalls after the third act.

Charles A. Stevenson as Bernard Dufrene rendered adequate support to the star. Harold Howard's Duc de Brissac is a conventional character study. Frank H. Westerton played Cascart, Zaza's singing partner, with the sincerity of finished art. Francis Powers, as Blac, and Dowolfing Clarke, as Mounet Pombla, did exceedingly well in these minor roles. Lizzie Conway as Rosa Bonne, Zaza's aunt, gave a comedy portrayal full of action. Calla Roberts played Mme. Dufrene well, but accentuated her primness a trifle unnecessarily. Eleanor Stuart did a slight role exceedingly well as Lisette the maid; and Laura Osborn played Alice Morel with admirable feeling. Indeed, there was not one part in the ensemble that was poorly done, so well balanced and thoroughly coached is the entire company, and little June Pelton, who played Toto, fairly divided honors with the star.

The staging of the drama drives one to resort to the well-worn adjective "sumptuous"—no other fits it. The first act, behind the scenes of the concert hall, is an exceptionally fine bit of stagecraft, while the last, on the Champs Elysees at night, is one of the most beautiful settings ever achieved by simple means. So well rounded and impressive a performance as a whole is rarely seen here. It represents the acme of Mrs. Carter's histrionic art, and the climax of David Belasco's technique. GEORGE SEIBEL.

Alvin—"The Office Boy."

The tricks and temptations of an office boy cause no end of merriment at the Alvin this week where the Nixon & Zimmerman Opera company presents Frank Deshon's latest musical comedy of that name. This particular office boy is in a class by himself. He "gets" the crowd with his facial contortions. He touches the funny side of business life every time he ventures his sage remarks. He sings the most weary watcher into a spasm of laughter, and he gives a free-for-all lesson in osculatory exercises that would make a school girl green with envy. In all ways Frank Deshon was a successful entertainer last night and his reception was as generous in its sincerity as his stature is diminutive. Along with Mr. Deshon there is a chorus of girls who may be classed as above the average in general attractiveness. They make a hit in their brief role as angry stenographers on a strike. Their songs are catching and their ways are more or less bewitching according to how much their luster is dimmed by the prosaic actions of the eccentric firm of lawyers, Ketcham & Cheatem. The crowd cares little for the ghost of a plot in the comedy—confusing the identity of the office boy and a famous jockey, but is all the time interested in the work of the chorus and the songs, which are well rendered. "I'm On the Water Wagon Now" will be remembered as one of the chief song hits. Deshon measures up capably to comedy work though he is by no means the unctious wit of the originator of this funny comic opera character.

Grand—Mantelli in Vaudeville.

Vaudeville may well say: "No pent-up Utica contracts my power." From the Metropolitan opera house forces one of the conspicuous foreign singing stars is a head liner at the Grand this week. Musical criticism is superlative in this instance. Vaudeville asks for effects, and if by this standard a great singing voice be partially eclipsed by acts of broader and more immediately appealing force, who shall quarrel with Vaudeville. Madame Mantelli sings "The Flower Song" from Faust, and sings it with far more charming vocalism than she displayed in either "The Girl I Love" or "Suwanee River," but it was the latter songs that won largest share of interest for the audience. Her voice is clear, sweet and powerful, and though her English is not always in good shape, it is in this tongue that vaudeville can best hear and appreciate her splendid singing.

Ryan and Richfield are at the other extreme on the bill, and doubtless won a larger share of applause. Mr. Ryans Mike Haggarty is a thing of joy, while the quiet art of Miss Richfield is a happy contrast. James J. Morton talks to himself while the audience goes into paroxysms of laughter. The Florenz Family of acrobats do one of the most remarkable acts seen here for a long time. Howard and Bland do an act, with the assistance of the orchestra, of which Mr. Howard's piano playing is the best thing. Chineo, a new juggler from the New York Hippodrome, is remarkably clever and daring, succeeding after many trials in doing a billiard ball trick that is wonderful. The Comedy Four, Joe Reichen's trained dogs, truly a fine canine act, and Mack and Leonard, dancers that are new, fill up a program of strength and variety.

Empire—"A Runaway Boy."

A conventional melodrama with strong specialties never fails to entertain the patrons of a popular-priced house. When these virtues are combined with a happy-go-lucky juvenile star like little Joe Santley, of course the performance goes with more than its ordinary vim. The melodrama—oh, forgive us! It was like all the rest of them, with whole buckets of blood and endless rolls of thunder. It is called "The Runaway Boy," and deals with the forsaken child that runs away from home on Christmas night, etc. But, nevertheless, there is plenty of opportunity for good work by somebody, because this boy was only human and he joined the circus. It happened to be only a one-ring circus, but it had some good acts, and these are shown in the specialties. Scott and Wilson are billed as whirlwind acrobats, and they are all of that. The Marions are "marvelous aerial ladder and contortion ringers," and they are all of that. Mlle. Zoar—it really isn't a bad pun to say that this beautiful young lady zoars in the air in the most mystifying way. Bowem and Reynolds are equally good. The truth is that the Empire has a very good attraction this week, and a packed house last night indicated by uproarious applause that it was immensely pleased.

Gayety—"Vanity Fair."

The well-known "Vanity Fair" extravaganza company is at the Gayety for the week, with two high-class vaudeville features worth the price of admission, and the ordinary line of burlesque, musical features and nonsense. "On the Fall River Line" is still used as the opening piece, and when the "business" of the Irishman and the Dutchman going to bed on the cot is sprung, to the accompanying roars of laughter, one is reminded of Sidney Grant's remark: "What's the use of thinking up new ones?" Reed and Shaw perform in one of the most expert gymnastic turns ever seen here, and the original "Wangdoodle Four" of colored comedians and singers, convulsed the audience with laughter. Tokio, a Japanese equilibrist is billed as Admiral Togo's nephew, which is the first intimation that the admiral has adopted the title of "Uncle of his Country." Tokio is worth seeing. Other acts of the usual burlesque standard include Ward and Raymond in a good dancing turn, and Brown, Harris and Brown in a sketch of general nonsense, and a little good singing. The burlesque, "Female Drummers," concludes the performance.

Academy—Fay Foster Company.

The big headlight on the Academy bills for this week spells "Battling Nelson," and the regular crowd at this playhouse is swelled by the lovers of boxing, curious to see the champion lightweight of the above name. He is not especially clever as a boxer and the exhibition is not at all showy, but the magic word "champion" holds the interest and he biffs his sparring partner around at each performance just as a hint as to how he moves when he cuts loose.

Keno, Welsh and Melrose, the great Allegheny acrobats, are also on the bill with their well known turn, which has yet to be duplicated in cleverness by any other team. Other good vaudeville turns are furnished by Essie Rosa, a soubrette, Cushman and St. Clair in "Hooligan's Troubles," Herbert and Willing, black face comedians, and Louie Dacre, the "Happy Girl." The burlesques are up to the usual standard in music, girls, comedians, and scenic and light effects, and are named "Cleopatra in Central Park" and "A Night at Kelly's Hotel."

Bijou—"Tracked Around the World."

It has come to be so that when the name of Al H. Woods appears as "presenting" a melodrama one may look for a conglomerate nondescript collection of presumably sensational incidents. "Tracked Around the World" is no stranger at the Bijou. Georgie Mack is featured, and he is a clever youngster in the role of "the boy detective," and does some clever specialties. The melodrama is acted well in several of the leading parts. Rose Braham is excellent as the innocent victim of her father's wrong. Henry Frey's Hebrew is intended as low comedy, but the piece affords only the poorest and stalest lines. If obvious melodrama with little connection or sense can be made to "go" by acting these players come nearer than one could believe when the play is considered.

McIntyre and Heath.

McIntyre and Heath will be the attraction at the Nixon theater next week in a new musical novelty, "The Ham Tree," described as "Klaw & Erlanger's Laughing Trust." McIntyre and Heath and their big company and production come directly from a three months' run on Broadway, New York, where this attraction has proved the greatest laughing success New York has known in years. The book is by George V. Hobart, lyrices by William Jerome, and the abundance of music by Jean Schwartz.

"His Last Dollar."

The offering at the Alvin next week will be the American romantic play, "His Last Dollar." This beautiful story of Dixie land and Wall street, is from the pen of David Higgins, who will be seen in the leading role, supported by Eleanor Monteil, a winsome and talented leading woman. There will be a special Thanksgiving day matinee.

Revive Romeo and Juliet.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Julia Marlowe and E. H. Sothern tonight revived "Romeo and Juliet" at the Knickerbocker theater. The play will run for a week, after which Miss Marlowe and Mr. Sothern will go on the road in Shakespearean repertoire.

Subsidiary Concerns of the Philadelphia Company Have Annual Election.

Stewart, M. S. Beltzhoover, Nathaniel Holmes, William Munhall and A. H. Childs. The Citizens Passenger Railway Company, the Penn Street Railway Company, the Aspinwall Street Railway Company, and the Highland Park and Butler Street Railway company elected James J. Donald, John B. Jackson, H. S. A. Stewart, M. S. Beltzhoover and Nathaniel Holmes.

Directors of the various companies will later organize and elect H. S. A. Stewart, president; James J. Donald, vice president, and Nathaniel Holmes, treasurer.

GRAND OPERA SCORES FRESH GOTHAM TRIUMPH

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—With a brilliant gathering, representative of the wealth and fashion not of New York alone but of the entire country, the Metropolitan Opera house was reopened tonight for the grand opera season of 1905-6. Every box was filled, every seat from orchestra to topmost gallery was occupied, and back of the railings were hundreds willing to stand for hours, not so much perhaps to hear the opera on the stage as to view the bright and ever-changing scene in the crowded auditorium.

The boxes made a dazzlingly beautiful spectacle, each with its occupants of women splendidly gowned, glittering with jewels, and men who are known throughout the world as leaders in the realms of industry and finance. Among the women were the social mentors of New York and of other cities as well, who shared almost equally with those upon the stage the attention of people in the orchestra below and in the gallery above.

The opera house, which has been freshly decorated, made a splendid setting for handsomely-attired women and their escorts. The coloring, much of it dark red, made a rich contrast with the light gowns in the boxes. The opera given was Ponchielli's "La Gioconda," with Caruso, Mme. Nordica, Louise Homer, Mme. Jacoby and Plancon and Scotti in the cast. This work, which gives opportunity to all the singers to show the quality of their voices to good advantage, was a favorite with the audiences last year. Two ballets are given, the more important being the beautiful "Dance of the Hours."

Tonight Mme. Nordica and Caruso repeated their success of last year, and were rewarded with frequent calls before the curtain. Plancon also, always a favorite, was warmly received.

WEEK OF GRAND OPERA.

Heinrich Conried's Metropolitan Company Has Been Secured by the Nixon Theater Management.

S. F. Nixon will have the local direction of the grand opera season when the stars of Heinrich Conried's Metropolitan Opera House Company visit Pittsburgh. Mr. Kirk of the Nixon, received a letter yesterday in which Mr. Nixon says:

"It is not without considerable difficulty that we secured the privilege. The Metropolitan opera house organization is, in its own way, the greatest on earth, and naturally we were not the only managers who would have liked to handle it here. We had to guarantee the Conried Metropolitan Opera Company magnificent returns. But we felt confident that the attraction promised for this season, the strength of the company, the brilliancy of the stars, both new and known, and the interest of the repertoire, more than justified us in giving the required guarantee. Instead of arranging for the customary four days of opera at the Nixon theater, we have secured the Metropolitan artists for a whole week."

WARM WELCOME GIVEN CALVE LAST EVENING

Pleasing Prima Donna and Company Appear at Carnegie Music Hall Before Appreciative Audience.

By CHARLES N. BOYD.

An audience which about two-thirds filled Pittsburgh Carnegie music hall greeted Calve and her concert company last evening, and showed cordial appreciation of the program. The prima donna herself was in excellent voice and spirits and responded with encores to the hearty applause which followed each of her selections. Her first number was the "Stanzas," from Gounod's early opera "Sapho," and its encores were the familiar "Sing, Smile, Slumber" by the same composer, and a French folk-song, which was sung without accompaniment. Later Calve sang the "Charmant Oiseau" from David's "Perle de Brazil," and the "Habanera" from "Carmen."

The florid David music is less suited to Calve's voice and style than any of the other selections, and the wisdom of its choice is doubtful. The "Carmen" music is, of course, that with which her name is most closely connected, and rightly so, but in the Gounod aria and other songs of varying character, the singer's temperament was displayed to nearly its good advantage. The insistent quality of Calve's voice and her personality go far in excusing her somewhat original methods of singing and her momentary lapses from the pitch, and make all she sings interesting.

Calve's supporting company is better than one is apt to expect. The basso, Mr. Bouxmann, was evidently not at his best. Mlle. Vermorel, the violinist, has a fairly large tone, and displayed considerable technical dexterity. Mr. Van Norden has a tenor voice of good quality, and sang with taste. M. Fleury played the flute obligatos well, and M. Decreus was an excellent accompanist.

CONSTABLE FINDS DEATH HAD TAKEN MAN HE SOUGHT

IRWIN, PA., Nov. 20.—"There is no use looking for Brakeman Clark; he died in the West Penn hospital after being run over by his train," said Conductor Peoples to Constable Meerhoff at Derry today, when the latter appeared with a warrant for the arrest of Peoples and his crew on a charge of aggravated assault brought by John Perley of Larimer. It is said that Perley and a companion suffered in a fight west of town. The railroad men alleged they were assaulted by Perley and others and were obliged to defend themselves. At Clairton Clark fell from a train and both legs were ground off.

Says Johnstown Is Very Wicked.

JOHNSTOWN, PA., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—"Johnstown With the Lid Off" was the title of a paper read before the Ministerial association this morning by the Rev. J. Smith. The preacher declared Johnstown is as wicked as Chinatown in New York or San Francisco. He gave statistics relative to houses of ill-fame, gambling joints, opium dens, speakeasies and other resorts and astounded the ministers, who are going to organize a law and order society.

EXCITEMENT ON THE WHARF.

A Woman Reports Her Pocketbook Stolen While in a Crowd.

Large cargoes of chickens, turkeys and geese were brought in by the arriving boats yesterday and the wharfs presented a busy scene. There was a large number of people to buy all arrivals in the way of poultry and game. A woman reported her pocketbook stolen while she was in the crowd. The police were notified but the thief was not caught.

The boats in yesterday were the Ben Hur, Kanawha and Columbia.

The Keystone State which was due late Sunday night, did not arrive until last evening on account of the breaking of the hog chain.

Large shipments of turkeys are looked for next week. Rivermen are predicting that hundreds of crates will be brought in. A moderate price is looked for on the markets.

BERNHARDT OPENS HER LAST AMERICAN TOUR

Great Chicago Audience Greets Eminent Actress in Her Farewell Performances.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Sarah Bernhardt tonight appeared at the Grand Opera house in "La Sorciere," to begin her farewell tour of America, and she was greeted by an audience made up of Chicago's most representative citizens, who showed their appreciation of the work of the great actress at every opportunity. All seats were sold before 6 o'clock this evening, while hundreds of persons were standing in line and offering premiums to obtain seats.

Although suffering fatigue from her long, rapid journey from Paris to Chicago without stopping to rest in New York, Mme. Bernhardt gave a representation that won unstinted praise.

When Mme. Bernhardt arrived in Chicago, today, at 4:20 o'clock over the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railroad, she had completed a journey of 5,000 miles that began in Rio de Janeiro on October 10. From South America, she went to Lisbon, whither she proceeded to Paris, and thence to Havre, where she took passage for New York. The vessel reached New York several hours behind schedule time and Mme. Bernhardt was compelled to take a special train to Chicago in order to meet her engagement tonight. Even this arrangement allowed the troupe less than four hours time to go from the train to the stage, and to have the wardrobes transferred to the dressing rooms.

Mme. Bernhardt will appear in eight performances in Chicago this week, and will then proceed on her farewell tour.

TO NAME POLICE HEAD.

Director Moore Says the Selection Is Not to Be Postponed Until After Election.

Director Moore denied yesterday the report that the city administration does not intend to appoint a police superintendent, and intends to have the bureau conducted without an official head, with Assistant Superintendent Kennelly as acting superintendent, until after the February election.

"It is the intention to make an appointment," said the director. "I was talking with the mayor about the matter today, but we did not decide on the man who is to be superintendent."

Some talk was caused yesterday by the appearance of Kennedy and Murray G. Livingston, the ordinance officer, at the mayor's office, where they had a long talk with Mayor Hays. Livingston's friends have been booming him for the office. Kennelly would be the logical choice in case the superintendent is to be taken from the bureau. Neither Kennelly nor Livingston would discuss their visit to the mayor.

Shonts, chairman of the Isthmian canal commission, has just given to Monmouth college 10,000 as part of the $30,000 needed to secure an additional $30,000 which Andrew Carnegie had promised to give the college for a library. Mr. Shonts is a graduate of Monmouth college.

QUAY STATUE WILL BE ERECTED IN CAPITOL

Col. Moody Denies a Silly Harrisburg Story About Abandonment of Memorial Project.

A silly story was sent out from Harrisburg yesterday, dealing with the probability of the abandonment of the plan to erect a statue of the late Senator Matthew Stanley Quay at the state capital. The report is positively denied by Col. Samuel Moody, who with Ex-Senator J. Donald Cameron and David H. Lane of Philadelphia, form the commission to erect the statue.

The last legislature appropriated $20,000 for the purpose of building the statue. During the recent campaign the Democrats made some effort to make the matter an issue. The Harrisburg story would indicate an attempt is to be made to keep up the chatter on the subject. Col. Moody made this statement:

"The commission has no intention of abandoning the erection of the statue. We have been at work and the selecting of a sculptor has been left to Senator Cameron. He will name one of two artists. There is no reason why this tribute should not be paid to the memory of Senator Quay. His relatives and friends should not be humiliated by talk of abandoning the project. The money has been appropriated and it will be spent for the statue. The only way to prevent it is to repeal the act authorizing the erection and this will not be done.

"The only statement bordering on the truth in the Harrisburg dispatch was the announcement the statue might not be erected in the capitol ground. It is quite likely the commission will arrange to have the life-sized bronze figure of Senator Quay placed in the rotunda of the capitol. The statue will be modeled from the oil painting of Senator Quay hanging in the office of the secretary of the commonwealth."

MAN IN BAD PLIGHT.

Is Stuck by Car and Lies Unaided for Four Hours.

Elmer Douglass, aged 25, a painter, living in Corks Run, is in the McKees Rocks hospital in a critical condition the result of being struck Sunday morning by a car in Esplen. It is said the man lay unaided in an unconscious condition for four hours. Some people going to church notified a Pittsburgh policeman that a man was lying near the street car track, but because the man was 100 yards beyond the city limits the officer declared he could do nothing. The car that struck Douglass did not stop.

Burgess William Barr had the man carried into a house until the ambulance could be summoned. Douglass has several ribs and a shoulder blade broken. His ankle is broken and he is internally injured. Residents of Esplen threaten to complain to the Humane society.

Two Men Are Burned to Death.

They had been drinking at a christening Saturday night and after going home, Burkiski is said to have abused his wife and children. They left the house. Burkiski's friend, Streinski, remained with him. At 5 o'clock the house was destroyed by fire. Two charred bodies were found in the ruins.

YALE COACHES STUDYING TANDEM

Blue Expects to Stop Harvard's Rushes — Two Freshmen Placed on Varsity.

FROM THE OTHER COLLEGES

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 20.—Harvard's tandem and how to stop it is the problem upon which Yale's coaches are at work and will be at work until Wednesday evening when the hard practice for the blue-jerseyed eleven will cease until the following Saturday afternoon. Some of Yale's coaches believe they have a defense that will slow up the "Empire State Express" on Soldier's Field, but they are keeping it a secret. They admit, however, that to make their scheme a success they will have to recast the backfield and probably make a shift in the line at two places.

Burch, a husky freshman, who faced "Teddy" Roosevelt, Jr., last Saturday at end in the freshman game, may take Cates' place at left end. The Yale freshmen all praise Roosevelt Jr.'s work and pluck.

Dunbar, freshman tackle, is also considered a potential end. Moreover, Hockenberger has more strength tonight in his call for left guard than Erwin, who did not stand up as well as was hoped in the Princeton game.

Today only the easiest sort of drill was given the squad. The men went out to Yale field in blanket wraps and ran up and down the gridiron in couples and in squads. It was more like schoolboys aimless play than football practice. Wednesday is planned to be a hard day of practice.

Cornell.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—With no resting spell allowed after the Columbia game, the Cornell varsity got down to real hard work today in preparation for the Thanksgiving day game with Pennsylvania. That there is one more chance to wipe out the mistakes of the past is the prevailing spirit at Percy field and the coaches and players have gone at their work with a determination which seems to say that they will take advantage of the last opportunity.

The Columbia game had some rather damaging effects. Fullback Halliday sustained injuries which it is feared may keep him out of the game the rest of the season. Martin was also hurt to such an extent that today a new man was found to fill his place at right halfback. The man selected is Babcock, who started in playing right end early in the season, but was off for a time because of injuries and later joined the freshman squad. Babcock is picked as a fast likely man for the position because he is a hard tackler, and strengthening of the secondary defense is greatly needed.

Jones, a scrub fullback, was tried out on the substitute varsity eleven today, and with Babcock was added to the training table squad tonight. Wolhein will fill Halliday's position for the present with Jones as his substitute. The work this afternoon consisted of a hard scrimmage for the subs against the freshmen and fast signal practice.

Annapolis.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—The football squad at the naval academy is now being excused from afternoon drills until after the West Point game, and the practice this afternoon, which was secret, was fast and generally satisfactory. Every member of the squad is in good condition except Piersol, who still limps on account of his twisted knee. Piersol will be much missed if he does not get in the Army game, as he is a fine defensive tackle and has lately developed much ability in carrying the ball. Northcroft and Chambers are the most likely substitutes for the position. Northcroft is not as good a defensive player but an excellent ground gainer. Chambers, who was the guard on the team two years ago, has been with the squad for only a little while, but is the heaviest and strongest man in the academy. He has always been slow, but shows signs of walking up.

Lieut. Boyer, Wes. Point's head coach, saw the game against University of Virginia Saturday. He said that the Army and Navy teams play much the same sort of game, but that the Army is heavier on the line but not quite as heavy as the Navy behind it. He stated that the Army team had improved with every game, and that the Army-Navy would prosably be decided by the generalship used.

Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—With the big Yale game only a few days away, Coach Reid of the Harvard varsity eleven has hit upon a novel plan to perfect his men and in the next few days his charges will not do anything but run through signals and formations.

The lumbering gait struck by the varsity in the battles against Pennsylvania and Dartmouth determined that speed must be developed to hold Yale down to a respectable score. It was Capt. Hurley's intention to have open practice this afternoon, but at the last minute Coach Reid vetoed this and put the men behind the canvas wall in the stadium. Yale's phenomenal showing against Princeton has boomed her stock to the limit and bets of 10 to 4 and 10 to 3 were frequently registered today with Yale the favorite.

When the varsity lined up for practice this afternoon several changes were noticed in the composition. Leary played left end and Brill and Montgomery alternated at left tackle. Burt returned to left guard and White went in at center. Kerberg covered right guard with Squires at right tackle and Knowlton at right end. At quarterback the team was directed by O'Neil Hall, formerly an end, and the best drop-kicker on the squad. Capt. Hurley was found in his old position at right half back and his running-mate at left half back was Foster.

There was no scrimmage work today, but the varsity lined up against the second when running through the signals.

U. of P.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—The Penn coaches this afternoon admitted that it was Columbia, not the Cornell, that they feared. The practice this afternoon was the hardest of the season, and the men worked until it was too dark to see the ball. A strong scrub was on the field, but the varsity managed to score five touchdowns, while the second team crossed the varsity's goal line twice, due principally to fumbling.

Dr. Stauffer, the referee of the Cornell game on Saturday, was on hand and assisted Head Coach Dickson with the linemen. Stauffer was severe with the players and penalized them for holding and offside play. As Mr. Edwards, who made such an excellent official in the Pennsylvania-Harvard game, and who was not afraid to inflict a penalty when he discovered the man offside or holding, will officiate at New York on Saturday, the coaches decided to break the men of these faults. Before the practice ended it was clear that they had benefited and were playing good, clean football.

Mike Murphy says that Columbia had stage fright before the Yale game, and that Pennsylvania must take Yale's 53 points seriously. If they do, he claims there will certainly be a surprise for them.

SPORTING NOTES.

T. C. C., Donora—The referee of a football game has no authority to recognize bets, but alone can call them off. Bets on the game should go.

Echoes of the Election.

A. C. Leftridge of 867 Mignionette street last night entered suit before Alderman Negley, charging Benjamin Geter of Amber and Eva streets with an assault which he alleges was committed on November 7 at the polls of the Tenth precinct of the Twenty-fourth ward. Several days ago Geter made a similar charge against Leftridge before Alderman Toole, and the suit entered yesterday is said to be a measure of retaliation.

High School Estimates Fixed.

The committee on high school of the Allegheny board of school controllers last night recommended the estimate of $10,000 for general expenses during the ensuing year and advised that $25,000 be appropriated for payment of principal and interest on school bonds. These figures are the same as those of the present year.

A bowling tournament in tenpins and duckpins will start at the Arcade alleys, McKeesport, next Saturday, 35 men having been entered in each tournament. Prizes will be awarded, three to each tournament winners, at Christmas.

Some interesting games took place between the four teams of the Diocesan league, the St. Charles and St. Anthony on the St. Anthony alleys and St. Henry and St. Joseph on the St. Henry alleys, and the first teams mentioned put up a very interesting game, with the St. Anthonys the proud victors for all three games. The bright particular star was Ebner, who had high score of 257 (which is the highest score in a match game this season), and best average, 199 1-3. Feidt, also of the St. Anthonys, had a fine score of 218. The match between the St. Henry and St. Joseph was hotly contested, but it was a clean sweep on the one side. For the winners V. FAST SIGNAL PRACTICE BY THE W. U. P. SQUAD

With favorable weather conditions and a fast field at Exposition park, the W. U. P. squad was sent through a speedy practice yesterday afternoon. The beginning of the last fortnight of the season brings with it the necessity for hard and exacting work from now on in preparation for the final event of the schedule, the annual game with State college. The invalids of the last week will be ready for hard work again by next Saturday, though it is hardly possible the whole regular varsity team will be used against Geneva. The good work of the substitutes in the O. M. C. game demonstrated the fact that there is little to choose between the strength of the two teams which W. U. P. can put in the field at any time.

The steadying effect of Capt. Thompson's presence was very noticeable in Saturday's game and the substitute backfield showed fine speed at all times.

Yesterday's practice consisted of signal drill. Schmidt, Art and Frank Griggs and Perry were in their regulars places. Miller, McKean and Boisseau did not appear for practice. Leidenroth, who played in Saturday's game in spite of illness, is a very sick man. He was out for work yesterday, but had to give it up. There will likely be no scrimmage work in practice this week.

Americus Passers in Line.

MEADVILLE, PA., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—The Americus basketball team is arranging a hard schedule. Grove City college, Franklin Y. M. C. A., Jamestown Y. M. C. A., Erie, Buhl club of Sharon, Young Men and other strong teams have been booked. An effort is being made to bring Hans Wagner's Carnegie team here for a game. Games will be arranged with any strong teams in the state. Pittsburgh teams are requested to write the Americus management giving open dates.

East Liverpool Organize.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Although three of the players are missing, East Liverpool's champion basketball team will be in the field again this season. O. H. Booton has been elected manager, Tom Watkin, captain and coach, and Earl Powell treasurer. The season will be opened on Thanksgiving day.

C. W. Watson's Show Horses.

FAIRMONT, W. VA., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Clarence W. Watson of Baltimore, Md., president of the Fairmont Coal Company, will bring his string of 24 famous show horses here for the winter. They will be kept in the stables at the old Watson homestead. At the New York horse show just ended Mr. Watson's horses captured several blue ribbons and other prizes.

Big Shoot at Sewickley.

The Sewickley Valley Gun club is planning a big day target shoot to be held at its grounds near Sewickley on Saturday, December 9. There will be 12 events.

AMONG THE BOXERS.

Gus Dezerah and Big Mackey are tied up to meet on Thanksgiving day at Cincinnati. They are to go 15 rounds.

Eddie Zeng and Tom O'Hara are booked to meet at Johnstown to fight before the West End club. They are to go six rounds.

Danny Dougherty and Kid Murphy of New York are scheduled to meet in a 15-round bout at Baltimore tonight. The weight is set at 129 pounds, ringside.

Frank Morgan began training yesterday for his fight on December 4 with Curley Supples. Jim Scanlan has him in hand and promises to put the popular local boxer in first class shape.

Solly Stroup, just returned from the Klondike, and Billy Ryan of Syracuse are matched to meet at Erie in a 15-round contest at 139 pounds. Stroup will do his training at Charlerol.

Kid Carter and Harry Brown are requested to call at the Herron Hill Athletic club this afternoon at 5 o'clock, sure, to assist Jack McClelland in his training for his fight with Billy Ryan, December 12.

Articles of agreement between Curley Supples of Pittsburgh and Frankie Morgan of Pittsburgh for a 15-round bout, to be held in the Coyle theater Monday, December 4, were signed by the manager of the Charleroi Athletic club last night.

The date of the boxing show to be held in this city shortly will be announced in a day or so. Among the boxers who will appear are Paul Moore, Young Zirlinger, Joe Alton and Jock Phenicle. It is very likely that their opponents will come from either Philadelphia or New York, as the management intends to make this the banner show of the season.

Harry Moore, director of the department of public safety, yesterday announced that amateur boxing bouts would be allowed in the city. All reputable managers will be given permits. The director demands that every contestant should be examined before he enters the ring. This is an important ruling and should be remembered by all local boxing promoters. If the local managers respect each other's dates and drop all petty jealousies, Pittsburgh sports will see good bouts.

ATLANTIC A. A. IS EXPELLED BY UNION

Walter Eckersall Is Reinstated, but Warned to Not Again Play for Money.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Resolutions expelling the Atlantic Athletic association of clubs in the vicinity of Philadelphia from membership in the Amateur Athletic union were adopted today at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States. This action was due to the defiance by the Atlantic association of the rules of the Amateur Athletic union in the case of Frank S. Floyd, a wealthy broker of Bryn Mawr, Pa., who is alleged to have entered boxing contests in St. Louis and Boston under the name of Jack Eagan, while enrolled in the Amateur Athletic union. The Atlantic association refused to expel Floyd.

Walter Eckersall, quarterback of the Chicago University football team, who was suspended on the charge of having played professional baseball on the Spalding team of Chicago last summer, asked reinstatement from the national body on the ground that he had only played simply for recreation and exercise and was allowed only his expenses. The board allowed him to be reinstated, but moved that he be warned against repeating his offense.

The new board of governors elected is as follows: New England association, M. F. Winsdon of Lynn, Mass.; T. T. G. Riley of Cambridge; J. B. Maccabe, East Boston, Mass.

Metropolitan association—F. W. Rubien, J. E. Sullivan, Bartow S. Weeks, John F. Dooling, P. L. Gross, all of New York.

Central association—John McLoughlin, Everett Brown and Dr. G. K. Herman of Chicago.

Western association—J. F. O'Connor, J. G. O'Brien and Ben Fell of St. Louis.

South Atlantic division—H. B. Dekeley, D. R. Straus and Gustav Brown of Baltimore.

Pacific association—E. C. Harrison, M. L. Rosenfeld and E. A. Woods of San Francisco.

Southern association—Forest Adair, Atlanta, Ga.; W. D. Nesbit, Birmingham, Ala.; B. F. Sullivan of New Orleans.

The following officers were elected: President, Joseph B. MacCabe of East Boston; vice presidents, William Greer Harrison of San Francisco; W. D. Nesbit of Birmingham, Ala.; Everitt C. Brown of Chicago, Gustavus Brown of Baltimore; secretary-treasurer, James E. Sullivan of New York city.

CAPTAIN BROWN A MEMBER OF THE BOARD

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Members of the American Turf association held their annual meeting here today and re-elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, M. J. Winn, Louisville; vice president, E. Corrigan, Chicago; treasurer, W. J. O'Brien, Chicago; secretary, Wm. J. McAlister, Chicago. Members of the executive committee are: M. J. Winn, E. Corrigan, W. O. Palmer, W. C. Scott and M. Overton. The members of the board of appeals are S. S. Brown, Julius Fleischmann and T. C. McDowell.

Officers of the city park track at New Orleans were approved as follows: Presiding judge, Francis Treveigan; associate judge, racing secretary and handicapper, Joseph S. Murphy; starter, Morris Cassaidy; official timer, George Lindenberger; starting judge, William Shelly; paddock judge, W. W. Lyles; patrol judge, P. Weems; clerk of the scales, J. Campbell; entry clerk, W. Norval; financial secretary, Harry Kuhl.

Mr. Barnes was appointed to represent the association at the City Park track. Application for dates for a meeting at City Park November 30 to March 1 was allowed.

The protest against C. Comerford, who won 8 stakes at Kansas City with Earl Rogers and Ida Kearney coupled, was not allowed. It was contended that these horses belonged to Barney Schreiber instead of Comerford. Differences of the association with the Western Jockey club were not discussed.

GREAT INTEREST IN THE MICHIGAN-CHICAGO GAME

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—So great is the interest in the outcome of the Thanksgiving day football game between the University of Michigan and the University of Chicago teams for the inter-collegiate championship of the "Big Nine" to be played on Marshall field, that every seat, with the exception of a few thousand reserved for the students, has already been sold.

Tickets for the game were put on sale today for the first time in a downtown sporting goods house and so great was the rush that those who got into the waiting line at 9:30 o'clock in the morning were still anxiously waiting at 1 o'clock in the afternoon for tickets. Tonight, when the last ticket had been disposed of, there were still thousands of persons clamoring for seats. Arrangements have been made to seat 25,000 persons and 10,000 tickets for standing room will be put on sale.

YALE AND PRINCETON WILL EACH RECEIVE $29,000

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Yale and Princeton will receive about $29,000 each as proceeds of last Saturday's game. As the tickets for the coming Yale-Harvard game are sold, and a crowd of about 24,000 is assured, Yale will probably receive about $34,000 from that meeting, making Yale's total for her championship games $63,000, the biggest record for two games.

Sewickley to Play Latrobe.

LATROBE, PA., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Arrangements have been completed by the management of the Latrobe football team for a game with the strong Y. M. C. A. football team of Sewickley, to be played here Thanksgiving day. The Sewickley football team will be here next Saturday. It is alleged that the team, smarting under its recent defeat by Latrobe, is loaded to the guards with college stars.

POINT BREEZE LOTS ARE WANTED

Syndicate Is Said to Be Dealing for Many Small Ones in Rear of Mellon Site.

SALE NEAR UNION STATION

Considerable curiosity has been aroused the past few days by the efforts of real estate brokers to secure a number of small properties at Point Breeze. The lots for which options are being sought are directly in the rear of the Singer and Mashey homesteads, recently purchased by A. W. Mellon. They face on Hastings and Elysian avenues and Selwyn street, and are improved with frame houses. The J. Lucas property, 73x169 feet, on the west side of McClintock street, adjoining the Howe property, is reported to have been sold last week for $8,000, and the former Goettman lot, at the northeast corner of Elysian avenue and Selwyn street, is also said to have been acquired by the agents who are dealing for the other sites. The two lots of R. Wolf, Jr., facing in Hastings and Elysian avenues, between Selwyn street and the Howe property, are also wanted.

According to reports received from property owners in the vicinity, the deals are being made for a syndicate which is trying to secure all the lots facing in Hastings avenue between Selwyn street and the Howe property, and also the frame houses and four vacant lots in the triangle bounded by Hastings and Elysian avenues and Selwyn street. All these properties are small, and the houses are not of a character calculated to please Point Breeze residents. The object of these deals, it is presumed, is to close that part of Hastings avenue, formerly called McClintock street, which is in the rear of the Mellon properties, and to extend Hastings avenue proper through to Penn avenue in a straight line. A. L. Peacock now has title to the Howe property, but it is said that he is not interested in the present deal. The small properties mentioned would, if the street were closed, make a splendid addition to the Singer and Mashey holdings and give the plot better shape, and also rid the neighborhood of a lot of improvements which are far from first class.

Oldshue Holdings Bring $70,000.

After negotiations extending over a year, the Oldshue holdings, at 1121-1123 Liberty avenue, opposite the Union station, have been sold for $70,000, the buyer being Thomas Ramsey. A few months ago the property was virtually sold through the Home Trust company, but the sale was made subject to the approval of orphans' court, which was not given. This deal transfers the title to the property from Pierre Ramsale, trustee for the estate of Dr. Lincoln Oldshue. The lot is 40x100 feet and adjoins the big holding of the Excelsior Express & Standard Cab company, which is soon to be improved with a six-story brick building to cost $125,000. One large frame building and one brick store now occupy the Oldshue lot. The rate of sale was $1,750 a front foot, or $17 50 a square foot.

Through the office of Warren & Gray, an iron manufacturer of Allegheny has leased from C. M. Warren a site 100x225 feet at the northwest corner of Johns and Harriet streets, McKees Rocks, for a period of 2½ years. The rental is about $2,000 a year. On the lot are now erected a two-story iron clad building, 60x150 feet, and a one-story building, 20x100 feet. The property has the advantages of a siding on the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad and a John's siding on the Pennsylvania lines. This lease cuts out 212 feet of frontage at this point which has been taken up lately, showing the increasing demand for manufacturing sites. The present lessee gets possession December 1 and will install in the two buildings a large steel manufactory, the exact nature of which has not been stated.

Two Condemnation Hearings.

Witnesses were called for the first time yesterday afternoon to testify for the city of Pittsburgh on the value of the Delafield tract which the city condemned as a site for the filtration plant. The Delafield side of the case was heard some time ago before the board of viewers. It is the general opinion of realty men that the case will have to be settled in the courts.

A second hearing will be held this morning in the case of L. Strahley against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. The railroad company has taken a strip from the northwest side of his property in Penn avenue, East End, just across the bridge over the railroad. One hearing has already been held on the matter before a board of viewers, but the prices named are still widely at variance.

The East End will soon get another large corner as the result of the razing of the big gravel hill on the T. J. Davis property at the northeast corner of Penn and Fairmount avenues, Nineteenth ward. The work has been in progress for more and more than a year, a comparatively small portion of the 25-foot hill remains. The Davis lot is 250x123 feet, and is on the edge of the new business district in Penn avenue west of Highland. Mr. Davis formerly owned also all the Fairmount frontage up to Broad street, but some of this has been sold off and improved with houses.

Five of the one-story store buildings just being completed by the E. M. Ferguson estate in Penn avenue, west of Highland avenue, are already rented. Two real estate firms will also have quarters in this row. Coll & Totten and F. G. Conley & Co., but the latter will not move there till next spring. When it was at first proposed to improve this property with business blocks the idea was ridiculed, the objectors claiming that buildings could never be rented in that locality. But the success of the project shows that more of the same kind near by would find tenants easily.

$5,000 Profit in One Year.

George W. and Henry B. Hartman have secured title from W. W. Hartman to a property 84x240 feet in Wilmot street, near Ninth avenue, McKeesport, for $23,000. The property was bought less than a year ago for $18,000. It will now be improved with two large brick buildings.

C. C. Cassidy of Wilmerding is reported to have bought 900 feet of frontage in the Melion plan at Wall station on the Pennsylvania railroad for $21,000. The new owner will divide it into 40 lots and improve them with six-room brick houses to cost $2,500 each, which will be sold to the employes of the Westinghouse works on easy payments.

Wilkinsburg—A. D. Harrison of the Wilkinsburg Real Estate and Trust Company has sold for R. W. Beatty to Edward P. Young 40x117 feet in Oak street, near Hill street, First ward, Wilkinsburg, for $2,200, for Mary Ashton to Harry Snyder, 25x105 feet in Weinman street, Brinker plan, for $250; for Mrs. A. Schulte of Aspinwall to A. K. King, an eight-room frame house on 23x70 feet at 1009 Hay street, Wilkinsburg, for $2,100.

Wilkinsburg—The Wilkinsburg Trust Company sold for the Hampton Land Improvement Company to William A. Minteer lot No. 76 in Hampton avenue, 25x120 feet, for $5,000; to Edward F. Guthrie, lots 186 and 187 in Todd avenue, near Whitney street, 25x100 feet each, for $3,600. The sites will be improved with $5,000 brick houses.

St. Clair street—J. A. Young & Co. sold to C. S. Christy to Paul Ruprecht 317 St. Clair street, a nine-room frame house on 24x100 feet, for $4,800.

Fisk street—William G. Campbell sold to M. F. Read an improved lot, 22x123 feet, in Fisk street, near Davidson street, Seventeenth ward, for $6,500.

St. Clair street—James E. Umstatter sold to Homar L. Fisher an improved lot, 25x100 feet, on the west side of St Clair street, near Margaretta street, Nineteenth ward, for $8,500.

Susquehanna street—J. P. Bailey sold to Moses Anderson 55x183 feet on the south side of Susquehanna street, near Pitt street, Thirty-seventh ward, for $4,000.

Beelah street—James H. Shelton sold to Anna Harris an improved lot, 25x125 feet, in Beelah street, Fourteenth ward, for $3,300.

Mansion street—Ella A. McWilliams sold to Victor J. Levy an improved lot, 27x114 feet, on the north side of Mansion street, Twenty-third ward, for $8,600.

THE CLUBS

Contributions to this department must bear the name and address of the writer to insure attention.

Russian Peasants Are Like Children.

The simplicity and childlikeness of the Russian peasants was strikingly depicted yesterday afternoon by Mrs. M. D. Lichliter as she spoke of "Russian Folklore and Legends" before the Tourist club. "There is no middle class in Russia," she said, "only the childlike peasants and the highly cultured and intellectual class, which includes the members of the nobility and such great writers as Tolstoy and others. Fairy tales are told all over the empire, and so like little children are the peasants that they cannot distinguish between fact and fiction, and in this manner they are imposed upon often by unscrupulous people." A distinguished guest of the Tourist club yesterday was Mrs. Hart Darragh of Philadelphia, one of the best known women portrait painters of today. Mrs. Darragh is now visiting her son in New Brighton, and will later be the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Darragh Donohue. Mrs. Darragh returned in May from Europe, where she spent the past year in study, most of the time painting in Holland. She went abroad a year ago with William M. Chase's party. She is almost as well-known in Paris as in Philadelphia. Several of her portraits hang in the capitol in Washington. The program yesterday included a talk on "The Evolution of Russian Literature," by Mrs. Samuel E. Bowers; a reading, "The Cossack Mother and Father," by Mrs. H. W. Golden; "Russian Poetry and Songs," by Miss Mary Olive Duncan, and several musical numbers by Mrs. Gertrude Darragh Donohue and Miss Louise Loy, pianists; Miss Edith Hanna and Miss Mary Milligan, vocalists, with Mrs. Elizabeth Bingham, accompanist. Arrangements were made yesterday for the musicale which the Tourists will give December 4.

John Hart Chapter Meets.

The John Hart chapter, Children of the American Revolution, yesterday held its annual meeting in the home of Mrs. W. W. Wishart, Aurelia street, East End. Mrs. Wishart was elected president for the coming year, the other officers including the vice president, Mrs. Sullivan Johnson; recording secretary, Miss Rebecca Botsford; corresponding secretary, James W. Marsh; treasurer, Francis Nimick; registrar, Miss Alice Pearson; color-bearer, Vincent Imbrie. The chapter has outlined an aggressive program for the winter and spring, and will meet monthly. About February 22 it will give a colonial tea and in the spring, as soon as the weather is sufficiently warm, the children propose decorating with plants and flowers the graves of the soldiers of the colonial days and the early wars of the country. The chapter will also contribute money to the juvenile court, a similar donation to be given also to the junior republic or similar institution which it is proposed shall be established in this part of the state. The John Hart chapter is the richest chapter in the society of the Children of the American Revolution, and now has $400 in its treasury. HOLD UP HANDS OF PENNYPACKER

OPPOSE TARIFF REVISION

The directors of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce went on record yesterday as opposed to any revision of the tariff or any change in the reciprocal relations with foreign countries. The directors also gave hearty indorsement to Gov. Pennypacker and his suggestion that the Greater Pittsburgh be considered at the special session of the legislature to be convened January 15.

A resolution, warmly commending Gov. Pennypacker, was introduced by Dr. W. J. Holland. George H. Anderson said no praise was too high for the governor of the commonwealth for putting such significance to the movement as to suggest that it be considered at the extraordinary session.

Immediately after the adoption of the resolution Col. Albert J. Logan, who presided in the absence of President John Eaton, offered a supplementary resolution that the members pledge themselves not only to work for the Greater Pittsburgh bill but for the other subjects mentioned in the governor's proclamation, with especial reference to matters relating to the use of state funds. The matter of having the subjects suggested by the governor given proper attention by the legislators from this county was referred to the standing committees.

The directors showed themselves to be solidly against any attempt either to tinker with the tariff or to stir up agitation toward this end. The resolution to this effect was introduced in connection with a report from the New York Chamber of Commerce, calling attention to the dangers to the trade of the United States in Germany unless something is done toward securing a treaty of reciprocity with that country. The fact that a conclusion of such a treaty would require tariff revision made it inimical to the interest of this country, it was stated.

The resolution that the directors go on record as being opposed to revision and new reciprocity treaties and that the representatives in congress from this district be instructed to do all they can to prevent any tinkering with the tariff was adopted.

An exhaustive letter from Congressman Dalzell on the subject was read. He declared he was opposed to any revision of the present schedules, and gave figures in support of his stand.

Samuel F. Black caused a stir by introducing a resolution condemning the appointment by the Allegheny county judges of T. L. Rodgers and W. H. Hill as members of the new board of tax revision and assessments. Mr. Black approved the appointment of E. Z. Smith. He objected to the appointment of Mr. Rodgers because he is the father of former Judge Elliott Rodgers, whom, he says, is active and influential in county politics, and because Mr. Rodgers is upwards of 70 years of age.

Has Held Too Many Offices.

He finds fault with Mr. Hill because of his age and for the additional reason that Mr. Hill served the county as a justice of the peace, member of the legislature, mercantile appraiser, county treasurer and lastly as superintendent of the workhouse. He stated in his resolution that the appointments were made by a majority of the judges against the protest of four members of the bench.

He said the three of the members who disapproved the appointment were Robert S. Frazer, John M. Kennedy and Samuel A. McClung, and one other whose name he did not know. The resolution stated that the resignations of Messrs. Rodgers and Hill "should be demanded by an outraged public." No person seconded Mr. Black's motion to adopt the resolution and Col. Logan refused to allow it to be discussed until a second was made. This was finally done by H. D. W. English to permit debate, and James H. Willock and four or five other members severely criticised the resolution. It was referred to the committee of municipal affairs against the protest of Mr. Black.

George H. Anderson and A. P. Burchfield, delegates to the interstate commerce law convention at Chicago, reported that delegates were refused admission unless they signed a pledge to vote in favor of investing the interstate commerce commission with ratemaking power, that one of the delegates signed the pledge and the other refused, attending the bolters' convention.

The directors approved the recommendation of the municipal affairs committee, that George W. Guthrie be appointed to represent the chamber of commerce on the election reforms committee of Pennsylvania, whose work it is to draft a new code of election laws to be presented to the legislature.

Delegates Are Appointed.

Approval was given the recommendation of the committee on legislation to appoint four delegates to the national conference on immigration to be held under the auspices of the National Civic Federation in New York, December 6. The directors adopted a resolution expressing sympathy for the sufferers of the Russian massacres and appealing for financial help, and authorizing the chamber of commerce to receive relief contributions.

The railroads are asked to heat and light their cars with electricity in a report of the committee on transportation adopted by the directors.

W. H. Stevenson and John B. Barbour, Jr., were nominated for directors to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Capt. John F. Dravo. Mr. Stevenson was elected by a vote of 13 to 9. The president appointed as delegates to the national board of trade convention in Washington, D. C., next month, the following: A. B. Berger, George W. Guthrie, E. R. Munroe.

"The Mind Behind McClure's"

The Reading, Pa., Telegram, says:

"In the reform victories, as with the Santiago sea fight, there is 'glory enough for all.' But let it not be forgotten to give due credit to the directing mind behind McClure's Magazine, which planned the wonderful series of Steffens' exposures, to which much of the impetus of civic honesty can be directly traced. That was an example of American journalism at its best."

WALL STREET BULLS RESUME THEIR CAMPAIGN

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The New York stock market displayed great buoyancy yesterday, and during the first two hours it looked as if the total transactions would make a new record for the year. During the latter part of the session, however, trading fell off considerably, but the firm tone was well maintained.

The cliques which control the few specialties which have dominated the market for some weeks past apparently accepted the restoration of the legal reserves by the associated banks as marking the end of dear money, and they resumed their campaign with greater vigor than ever. The rapidity of the advance during the early part of the day was remarkable, and for some of the more conservative bulls was alarming. As a consequence there was extensive profit-taking, but the demand appeared to be large enough to absorb all offerings and carry prices higher than ever.

The most conspicuous movement of the day was in the Smelting stocks. American Smelting common made a new high record by advancing to 153½, and it closed 1¾ per cent higher than on Saturday. Federal Smelting did even better, opening at an advance of 4 per cent at 137 and advancing to 141¼, closing 11 points higher than on Saturday. The situation in this industry is that the smelters are overwhelmed with offerings of ore. Their capacity is already overtaxed, and to obtain relief they have advanced costs to miners, the result being abnormally large profits. There was a rumor that the American Smelting Company had in contemplation a doubling of its capital and the declaration of a stock dividend of 100 per cent. Anaconda Copper stock opened 3 points higher at 130 and advanced to 137⅞, closing at a net gain for the day of 10 per cent. Amalgamated Copper advanced to 83⅝, but closed at a gain of only ¾ per cent.

In the Boston market the copper stocks displayed great buoyancy under the lead of North Butte, which sold at 73¾, the highest ever quoted. This company declared a quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share, as compared with 50 cents three months ago. The Calumet & Hecla declared a quarterly dividend of $15 a share, being an increase of $5 a share over the corresponding quarter last year. The metal trade was reported very strong at the recent advance.

Another very strong feature of the market was Brooklyn Rapid Transit, which on enormous transactions advanced to 85½, the highest of the year. While this movement was in progress, however, Metropolitan Street Railway declined from 117 to 116¾. One house bought 25,000 shares Brooklyn during the first two hours, and the rumor was revived of buying for account of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Tennessee Coal and Iron was another very active and strong stock and advanced to 106⅝, or to within ⅜ of its previous high mark established last April. The minor iron and steel stocks were moderately active and firm, but it was not until after noon that United States Steel became conspicuous in the dealings. United States Steel common closed unchanged and the preferred only ½ per cent higher.

The most active of the railroad group was Union Pacific, which advanced to 154⅝, closing with a net gain of 1⅞ per cent. Southern Pacific closed only ⅝ higher. St. Paul closed 1⅞ higher. Reading was strong, despite the disclosure in the annual report of Baltimore & Ohio that that company had disposed of a considerable block of its holdings of Reading common stock. Pennsylvania closed ½ higher and Baltimore & Ohio ⅝ higher. New York Central was the only prominent stock to close lower than on Saturday.

Call loan rates ranged between 8 and 5½ per cent, the bulk of the business being at about 6 per cent. In addition to the easing of the money market, the bulls had the aid of decided improvement reported in the foreign situation. Russian 4s closed 1¼ per cent higher, English consols 7-16 and French rentes 10 centimes higher than on Saturday. London's operations in the New York market, however, were insignificant.

The local stock market continued to ignore the buoyancy displayed in the east and ruled dull, although the tone was firmer. One of the strongest stocks was Westinghouse Air Brake, which sold at 150 to 151 and advanced to 152 bid at the close. This stock has so far failed to respond to the great improvement in the car-building industry, but is looking better than for a long time past. Electric was unchanged at 86 and Union Switch and Signal was quoted at 82 bid, 83 asked. Pittsburgh Coal preferred was strong and advanced to 55¾, a net gain of 1¼ per cent. River Coal preferred was also firmer at 23½ bid. Crucible Steel common rallied to 13 bid, and the preferred sold at 66¾, an advance of ⅝. Pittsburgh Brewing was moderately active and firmer at 25¾ to 26. There were no transactions in Independent Brewing issues and prices were slightly easier. American Sewer Pipe declined to 30½, while National Fire Proofing issues were slightly firmer. Tonopah Extension rallied 25 cents a share, selling at $5 60. Ohio Tonopah was also a shade higher at 28c. The natural gas stocks were extremely dull but steady. Pittsburgh & Allegheny Telephone bonds sold at 84½, a decline of ½ per cent.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

When the New York ticker yesterday reported 972,000 shares handled during the first two hours of the market the impression prevailed that the record for the year would certainly be broken, and that possibly it would mark the culmination of the bull movement. The trading, however, was not so active during the remainder of the day, and the total fell below 1,400,000 shares. The largest day's business so far reported in 1905 occurred on February 27 last, when 2,176,000 shares were handled. The largest Saturday in the history of the stock exchange was February 25 last, when the sales for the two hours footed up 1,309,000 shares. It may be interesting to recall that some of the most active stocks yesterday were the leaders of the movement last February and April, in which latter month a number of stocks reached a higher level than that now quoted. Union Pacific, Ontario & Western, Tennessee Coal and Iron and Sloss-Sheffield were the leaders of that movement. In yesterday's market Brooklyn Rapid Transit was the leader in point of activity, with 152,900 shares. This stock, together with Union Pacific, Reading and Amalgamated Copper, furnished more than one-third of the entire dealings in all stocks. The general character of the dealings may be indicated by contrasting two stocks. The sales of Sloss-Sheffield Steel, which has a capital of only $10,000,000, amounted to 35,000 shares, while the sales of Pennsylvania Railroad, with a total capital of more than $300,000,000, were only 23,000 shares. Nevertheless, even the most experienced traders, who are not in full sympathy with the present movement, are forced to admit that it is handled in a masterly manner, and that if this mastery is maintained until there is evidence of an easy money market it will attract the public, as it has almost invariably done in the past. The Associated Press reporter indicates this when he says: "At no time this season has the market looked less professional than it did today, but at no time has the appearance been so highly speculative. The development of a decided movement in any one quarter was quick to attract a heavy following, buying in some cases being on an apparently unlimited scale. Recent pool favorites held their place in the leadership of the market, but there was a substantial showing of standard railroad and industrial stocks added to the movement."

The restoration of surplus bank reserves reported in the Saturday bank statement was regarded as assurance of the position of the New York money market and conndence was very generally expressed among the speculative element that the money pinch of a week ago marked the passing of the crisis of the autumn money market. However, there were firm discount markets in Paris and the rate of gold was marked up in London. There was an early advance in foreign exchange in New York, but the appearance of finance bills in the market caused rates to decline. New York exchange at Chicago rose 40 cents premium, compared with 20 cents premium last week. The issue of the Japanese refunding loan is reported imminent and on Thursday of this week the city of New York will sell $12,259,000 bonds.

For the first time in weeks Japanese bonds yesterday ranged third in point of activity on the New York stock exchange. Brooklyn Rapid Transit convertible 4s were the most active, the sales reaching $1,035,000 at prices ranging from 97¼ to 98½. These bonds are convertible into stock at par up to 1914. Wabash debenture Bs sold to the extent of $637,000 at 75½ to 77, and the sales of Japanese bonds foot up $563,000.

In the local curb market the low-priced mining shares were active. Sales of 12,500 shares Black Hills Copper changed hands at 37@38c, and 1,000 shares Golden Anchor at 83c. Several thousand shares Oriental and Masbate changed hands at 25c to 32c, John B. Barbour, Jr., being the largest buyer.

North Butte reached 73¾ on the Boston exchange and was quoted at 74 bid on the Pittsburgh exchange just at the close. This is the highest ever reached, and is nearly five times the par value of the stock. The directors yesterday declared a dividend of 75 cents a share, payable December 21 to stockholders of record at the close of business December 8. Books close December 11 to 21, both inclusive. This compares with 50 cents declared three months ago.

A Boston broker says: "Considering the fact that brokers have been demanding very large margins, and, in cases, payment in full on all new commitments in Boston Copper shares, the advance in quite a number of stocks is significant of good buying. The above is especially true of North Butte. Local brokers have not been reconciled to the sharp advance in these shares in so short a time, but interests that have familiarized themselves with conditions at the property say that this feeling in Boston regarding the shares of the North Butte company is due in many cases to a lack of knowledge of developments at the property."

The Wall Street Journal records show that the New York associated banks have furnished to the interior, directly and by payments to the sub-treasury for correspondent banks, $108,901,500 net cash since August 3 in excess of receipts from the interior. Of this amount $54,623,000 was shipped direct or transferred through the sub-treasury, and $54,278,300 was paid to the sub-treasury for correspondent banks. This record has never been exceeded.

A director of the United States Steel Corporation says it has been demonstrated in many lines during the last few months that consumption has overtaken production, and as a result prices have been advanced several times. Other advances are inevitable. Consumption shows no signs of letting up; in fact, everything indicates that it is still on the increase, and next year should be by far the best in our history.

Earnings of the Canadian Pacific for the second week in November showed an increase of $285,000, comparison being made with the same time a year ago. The company is in as strong a position as any of the large railway systems on the American continent. It is asserted that the land holdings alone will eventually produce over three times the par value of the stock.

The Calumet and Hecla Copper Mining Company yesterday declared a dividend of $15 per share for the last quarter, payable December 20 to stock of record of November 22. This is an increase of $5 per share from the last previous dividend, declared in August, and also a like increase from the dividend declared at this time last year.

A dispatch from Sharon says: "It is stated that E. N. Ohl of New Castle, who resigned from the vice presidency of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, and who is securing options on the La Belle Iron Company of Steubenville, will head a company that will operate that property. Fifty three-quarters of the stock has been optioned."

The item due banks and trust companies reported by the national banks of New York shows a decrease of $98,000,000 compared with November 10, 1904.

At the offices of the United States Steel Corporation in New York official denial is given to the reports that the company is seeking control of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company and the La Belle Iron Company.

Just before the close of the local market a trader bid 152¼ for 50 shares Westinghouse Airbrake and immediately thereafter offered 50 shares at 152. The close was 152 bid.

The New York Central railroad has closed a contract with the New York Airbrake Company, whereby the latter will supply airbrakes for 32,000 cars. This is the largest order of its kind ever placed and will not be completed until next October. The cars and their equipment involve something like $20,000,000. The specification in its original form called for brakes for 19,000 cars, but the New York Central this week increased its order to 22,000 cars.

The October gross earnings of the Panhandle railway increased $279,362, and net increased $89,294. From January 1 to October 31 the gross earnings increased $1,909,738 and net increased $237,011.

An advance of 15 cents a ton in the price of small sizes of hard coal in New York City has been made. Bituminous coal has also been advanced 25 cents to 50 cents a ton for the standard grades.

The Seaboard National bank of New York has declared a stock dividend of 100 per cent, thereby increasing the capital from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

The First National bank of Pittsburgh has been approved as reserve agent for the Valparaiso National bank of Indiana.

The National Exchange bank, Wheeling, will vote on December 12 to increase its capital from $250,000 to $500,000, the stock to go at $200 a share.

The sale of Westmoreland Coal on the Philadelphia exchange last week at 95¾ established a new high record for this stock. This year 10 per cent has been paid in dividends and this movement in the stock is probably based upon an expectation of this rate being maintained. Between 1885 and 1892 the dividend was 8 per cent; in 1894 it was 6½ per cent; from 1895 to 1902, 6 per cent yearly, including an extra 2 per cent in 1902. In April, 1901, the capital stock was increased from $2,500,000 to $3,000,000, and a stock dividend of 25 per cent declared, in addition to an extra 2 per cent already paid. In the early part of the present year the capital stock was increased to $5,000,000 to purchase the Pennsylvania Gas Coal Company.

The secretary of the treasury makes formal notice that the refunding of United States 3 per cent bonds, loan of 1908-1918, and 4 per cent bonds, funded loan of 1907, now proceeding under the circular of September 28, 1905, will be discontinued after November 29, 1905. Bonds that are intended for funding must be forwarded so as to be received at the treasury department not later than November 29.

The report of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company shows that, as compared with the previous report, the company sold 79,000 shares of Reading common, reducing its holdings from 279,050 shares to 200,050 shares. Its holdings of first preferred, 121,500, and of second preferred, 253,300 shares, was unchanged from a year ago. The company increased its holdings of Washington Terminal stock from 2,500 shares to 12,500.

BETTER TONE IS FOUND IN ALL LINES OF STOCK

Improved Situation Noted and Speculators Are More Hopeful.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The Herald this (Tuesday) morning says:

Under a marked increase in the volume of business, stocks ruled strong and closed higher yesterday. The greatest activity and the most conspicuous advances were found as a rule among the specialties of the list, but the movement was sufficiently general to include issues of all character. Despite the increased activity and the remarkable strength of the market, the dealings of the day continued almost entirely professional. There were no signs of increased public participation in the market, but the confidence of the pool and clique element in eventually drawing the public into the game was abounding. Speculative sentiment continued mixed. The spectacle of rapidly advancing prices, however, induced many persons not wholly in sympathy with the market to make some ventures on the long side, and it checked short selling.

The day's news bearing upon the Russian situation and upon the monetary situation was better, and most observers of the market attributed the improvement in prices to these features. However, as prices did not go down with the Russian situation at its most acute stage and the money market in chaotic condition last week, it is difficult to see how events that did not depress prices could have much influence, upon their improvement in advancing them. The chief factor in advancing the market was the force of professional buying, concentrated, for the most part, on relatively few issues. The most important news of the day was the announcement of the Japanese bond issue of $250,000,000, of which $125,000,000 will be offered immediately. Of the total amount, New York will take only about $16,500,000.

NO CHANGE NOTED IN ELGIN BUTTER REPORT

Trade in All Lines Good for Monday and a Large Amount of Stock Disposed Of.

The weekly quotation from Elgin on the butter situation did not make a change in the current prices yesterday. No change was looked for by the local merchants, as the market is steady with the exception of strictly fine creamery.

The effects of early Thanksgiving buying can already be seen around the commission houses, as yesterday was a busy day with all merchants and a good trade was had in all lines.

Game is becoming more plentiful every day, and the supply of rabbits yesterday was large. The choice stock was picked up early in the day. Not a very large supply was carried over.

With the possible exception of a few staple articles there has been no change in the grocery market for some time. Sugar, flour and coffee are remaining firm, although a change in each of these was predicted some time ago. Flour seems to have recovered itself from the effect of the car shortage. After sliding down the scale 20 points in less than a month sugar is now remaining unchanged.

Irish potatoes continue to run high in price, with the sales just fair. Sweet potatoes, when of a fancy stock, are finding a good sale at moderate prices.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts yesterday were: Pennsylvania, 28 cars hay, 30 cars oats, 26 cars corn, 5 cars feed, 2 cars rye and 3 cars straw. Baltimore & Ohio, 16 cars hay, 2 cars oats, 4 cars corn and 1 car oats. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 17 cars hay, 2 cars corn and 3 cars oats.

The receipts were heavy yesterday. All good hay and oats found ready sale. New shelled corn has not been quoted owing to the condition of the grain, some of it being quite damp.

The aggregate expenditure for construction and betterments was $8,642,733. Upwards of $1,500,000 of this sum was expended on the Pittsburgh division for improved freight facilities in and around Pittsburgh. The largest expenditure, however, was between Pittsburgh and Akron, where something over $2,000,000 was expended for a new double track line from Niles through Youngstown to Cuyahoga Falls. Special mention is made of the progress of the work on the new terminal and station at Washington, work on which is rapidly progressing and which it is expected will be ready for operation some time in 1907.

The volume of traffic was the greatest in the history of the company. Tonnage maintained its ratio of gain, reaching a total of 47,285,183 tons carried, an increase of 5,347,990 tons. Bituminous coal constituted 1,472,758 tons of the increase, coke 868,371 tons, stone, sand and like commodities 540,233 tons, ores 444,52 6tons. Castings and machinery made a large gain, increasing 339,012 tons. Iron—pig and blown—on the other hand, fell off 6,263 tons, and iron and steel rails fell off 5,709 tons. Flour decreased 121,579 tons, but other mill products increased 47,911 tons. Dressed meats decreased 19,264 tons, but other packing house products increased 40,774 tons. Cement, brick and lime increased 168,227 tons, and lumber, bark, etc., 48,682 tons. Products of mines predominate recently in the increase as a whole, being 51.37 per cent of it, as to again emphasize the exceeding strength of the company's own immediate territory as a reliance for continued augmentation of tonnage.

Passenger earnings of $13,817,141 were an increase of $670,692, the percentage to total earnings being 20.41, an increase of .21. Earnings per mile were $3,430, an increase of $134. Average earnings from each passenger 89.04 cents, an increase of 2.69. Average earnings per passenger per mile, 1.959 cents, a decrease of .039. During the year there were carried 15,618,872 passengers, being an increase of 115,311 over 1904.

Improvement at Glassport.

The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie has decided to go ahead with the proposed improvements of the company at Glassport, or at Pollock, which is a portion of Glassport. For the present only a portion of the proposed improvements will be made at this point on the river end of the Monongahela division. The contract has been awarded to Harris, Adams & Co. of this city for a 10-stall brick roundhouse, to be built at Pollock. This building will cost in the neighborhood of $30,000. Plans have been prepared also for a small shop building to adjoin and be operated in connection with the roundhouse, but the contract for this building will probably not be awarded for some time. The officers are now busily engaged in rounding up their recommendations for improvements to be asked for next year. It is likely that the improvements along the road will consist mostly of an improvement of the existing good stations and the replacement of old station buildings with new ones.

Doing What the Other Fellow Feared.

H. C. Townsend, general passenger and ticket agent of the Missouri Pacific, according to information received by Central Passenger Agent John R. James yesterday, is going to do something that railroad men have feared to undertake up to the present time. This is a tourist car service to Mexico. Tourist cars have been run by almost all of the roads to Rocky mountain and Pacific coast points for a number of years, but such a service to Mexico has never been attempted, although it has been considered. The service to be installed by Mr. Townsend will be run by way of the Iron Mountain, Texas & Pacific, International & Great Northern and National Lines of Mexico. Mr. James also announced that a 15-hour train service was installed Sunday between St. Louis and Hot Springs, the Iron Mountain route train being known as the Hot Springs special.

Only "Air" Cars After December 1.

The Southern Indiana railway, which has a portion of its road from Chicago southward under operation, has taken the most advanced stand yet taken by any railroad regarding cars equipped with airbrakes. General Manager M. W. Wells has just issued a circular to all of the railroads of the country saying that on and after December 1 "cars not equipped with airbrakes or piped for air, will not be accepted from our connections for movement to points on or reached via this line." The Pennsylvania has ruled that on and after July 1, 1906, only cars equipped with airbrakes and in good condition will be accepted for transit on any of the lines of that big system.

"NIGGER'S" DEBUT.

How the Intelligent French Poodle Jumped Into Fame.

Incidents concerning the Educated Dog, now filling his second week's engagement at Kaufmann's Auditorium, are read with almost as much zest by "Nigger's" host of admirers as are anecdotes concerning a presidential nominee.

"Was 'Nigger' afflicted with stage fright when he made his first stage appearance?" was asked of Professor Dodd, the owner and trainer of the dog.

"Not in the least—but he made a bad break which almost broke his canine heart," was the reply. "I was giving exhibitions with another remarkable dog at a New York theater, when in the midst of the engagement the performer had an attack of rheumatism that sent him to the Dog hospital. Nigger was then only eight months old, and had been in training only twelve weeks. The manager of the theater insisted upon something in the dog line to meet the advertising for the week already posted, so, with many misgivings, I brought on Nigger. He did splendidly, going through every feat without a miss or a blunder up to the last act. This is a 'stunt' where the trainer fires a gun and the dog apparently drops dead. In this case 'Nigger' lay dead for about a second and then jumped up and trotted off the stage. As soon as he was in the wings it evidently occurred to him that resurrection day had come too soon for him, and he rushed back to me with a shamefaced air, pleading eyes and a pitiful whimper which said as plain as words, 'I've disgraced myself and mortified you before all these people. What shall I do?' The immediate repetition of the act was followed by a 'dead' scene so protracted that it was necessary to ring down the curtain to persuade Nigger to come back to life."

"Nigger" will be the star feature at Kaufmann's Auditorium seven times each day all this week, his hourly performances beginning at 10 a. m. Free to all who visit "The Big Store."

SOCIETY

THE marriage of Miss Susan Quay, younger daughter of the late Senator Matthew Stanley Quay and Mrs. Quay, to Watson Butler of Sandusky, O., took place yesterday afternoon at the family residence in Beaver. The wedding was very quietly conducted, only members of the two families being in attendance, and these numbered scarcely a score. The Rev. Dr. E. J. Knox of Greensburg solemnized the marriage at 5 o'clock. There were no attendants. The bride wore a toilette of white, dainty in its simplicity. She and her husband left during the evening on their wedding journey, at the conclusion of which they will reside in Sandusky, where at home days have been announced for after January 1. Maj. Andrew Curtin Quay came on from Philadelphia to attend his sister's wedding. Another brother, Richard R. Quay, and his family are now in Europe, and consequently were not present. The bride, it will be remembered, broke the bottle of wine over the bow of the battleship Pennsylvania when it was launched into the Delaware.

MRS. WATSON BUTLER

(nee Quay), younger daughter of the late Senator M. S. Quay, who was married yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Butler is an Andover college man while his bride was educated at Dobbs Ferry. Their engagement was announced only a few months ago, soon after Mrs. Quay's return from a visit with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Quay of Sewickley, who were then at Southampton, L. I.

There was no formal announcement of last evening's wedding, no gathering of girl friends and none of the functions which usually precede a wedding. Those present were Mrs. Quay, mother of the bride; Mrs. Louis R. Davidson, sister of the bride; Maj. Quay, the bride's brother; Miss Dorcas Allison of Harrisburg and Mrs. E. J. Fair of Pittsburgh, cousins of the bride; Mrs. J. Calderwood Butler of Sandusky, O., mother of the groom, and Miss Elizabeth Butler, sister of the groom.

The bride was, during the latter years of her father's service in the senate, a favorite in society at the national capital and was also well known in Florida circles, spending most of her winters at her father's place at San Lucie.

Celebrates With Receptions.

Mrs. Charles Dickey Armstrong gave a brilliant reception yesterday afternoon, and in the evening she and her husband received their friends, both affairs being in celebration of the 20th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong. They were married on November 19, 1885, in the old First Presbyterian church of Wilkinsburg, their's being the only wedding which ever took place in the old building. The Rev. Samuel Moore performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Ewing of the Sixth United Presbyterian church, and the Rev. William F. Miller of Beulah church. Nearly all the wedding guests were in attendance yesterday at some time during the afternoon or evening. The afternoon receiving hours were from 2 until 4 and from 4 until 6 o'clock.

The hostess had for her assistants Mrs. D. R. Harris of New Castle, Mrs. John McLeod of Germantown, Mrs. Clayton Manson of Lynchburg, Va., and Miss Ella Rohrer of Harrisburg, all of whom are house guests; Mrs. William McConway, Miss J. J. Mattnews, Mrs. M. K. Salsbury, Mrs. Dibrie Horne, Mrs. Roland Balph, Miss James Balp, Mrs. William E. Evans, Mrs. John W. Beatty, Mrs. William Nelson Taylor, Mrs. William E. Hannett, Mrs. W. W. Blackburn, Mrs. Frank Willox, Mrs. H. T. Norris, Mrs. Grant Dibert, Mrs. W. H. Robinson, Mrs. A. W. Cadman, Mrs. Samuel W. Lyons, Mrs. William L. Woods, Mrs. Joseph A. Langfitt, Mrs. Charles A. McCombs, Mrs. W. O'Hara Wood, Mrs. W. H. McIntosh, Miss Mary Ferguson, Miss Anna F. Ferguson, Miss Myrtle M. Tucker, Miss Alice C. Hamlin, Miss May Weldman, Miss Helen Beatty, Miss Helen Balph and Miss Jean Balph.

Chrysanthemums, the flower which prevailed at the wedding of Miss Gertrude Virginia Ludden and Charles Dickey Armstrong 20 years ago, were used throughout their home in Lexington avenue yesterday. One corner of the drawing room was behked high with palms and ferns and, before one of the large windows through which the warm afternoon sunshine streamed, there stood a tall vase filled with large white chrysanthemums, autumn leaves and asparagus sprengeri. Another and smaller vase held a cluster of white roses, while one corner of the mantel was occupied by a jar of chrysanthemums. Over the red hangings smilax was draped. The front entrance to the house was closed with wicker screens and potted plants and behind these the musicians were stationed. The bannisters of the main staircase were decorated with smilax and the vine was trailed in profusion over all the doors leading from the hall to the various rooms. Huge clusters of yellow chrysanthemums hung from the outside of the bannisters and the newell post was topped by a jar of the same blossoms. The punch bowl, occupying a central nook, overhung with gracefully drooping Cibodium ferns, was adorned with bunches of lucious grapes, while its base was surrounded by mounds of other fruits and their leaves.

In contrast to the dark leather walls of the library yellow chrysanthemums were used and the massive chandelier was hung with asparagus plumosa and sprengerli. The dining-room was especially attractive, Cibodium ferns drooped low over the top of the buffet and the mantel was banked with farleyense ferns, aurelia plants and the vining vinca. The centerpiece on the table was of yellow and lavender orchids and the candlesticks, tied with big yellow bows, stood amid farleyense ferns and single lavender orchids. A dinner for the aids was given at the close of the afternoon entertainment. Charles Dudley Armstrong, the elder son of the house, came home from the Hill school in Pottstown to receive with his father and mother last evening. He is in his last year at the Hill school and next fall expects to enter Yale. Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong have two other children, Dwight Ludden and little Mary Marthe Armstrong.

Mrs. Morrison Gives a Luncheon.

Mrs. Thomas Morrison of North Highland avenue gave a beautifully appointed luncheon yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Charles M. Schwab of New York, who is visiting Mrs. Alva C. The guests included Mrs. Schwab, who left last evening for a visit with her mother, Mrs. M. E. Kinsey, in Braddock; Mrs. Alva C. Dinkey, Mrs. J. Grant Anderson and her two guests, Mrs. Morrison Fitzsimons of Overbrook and Mrs. W. S. Miller of Philadelphia; Mrs. Daniel M. Clemson, Mrs. Kerr, Mrs. Charles Dinkey, Mrs. William Yost, Mrs. David Collingwood, Mrs. Wiemer of West Newton and Mrs. A. M. Scott.

Mock and Miss Alice Dinkey. Mrs. J. E. Schwab of New York, who was also Mrs. Dinkey's guest, is now with friends in Sewickley. Both she and Mrs. Charles Schwab will leave for their eastern homes on Friday evening.

The guest list will not be large and the honors of the occasion will be shared by Miss Katherine Reed, Judge and Mrs. James Hay Reed's debutante daughter, and by Miss Margaret Cloud.

Mrs. Henry Balken will give a small and informal luncheon at her home in College avenue on Thursday afternoon, having as her guest of honor Mrs. William B. Boggess, who was Miss Helen Maebeth before her marriage in the summer. The guests will include the younger married friends of Mrs. Boggess and the girls who would have been her bridesmaids had she had a large wedding.

It was a prettily appointed luncheon which Mrs. Thomas Alexander Mellon gave at the Golf club yesterday in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Herman Kampmann of San Antonio, Tex. The centerpiece on the one round table was a mound of yellow roses and the favors were dainty corsage bouquets of the tiny Bon Selene roses. The guest list included Mrs. Kampmann, Miss Rebekah J. Friend, Miss Alberta Harper, Miss Martha Heron, Miss Georgia Neale Heard, Miss Ruth L. Miller, Miss Pauline Dilworth, Miss Emily C. Lyon, Miss Harriet W. Balken, Mrs. Harvey Miller and Mrs. Andrew Bart Berger.
